The Crowd Cried For 'Friendship'

NOVOSIBIRSK, U.S.S.R.—The ballet was done. It had been magnificent. A scene followed which was warming. Vice President Nixon and his wife went backstage. The principals who had just brilliantly danced Swan Lake were all there.

They looked very pretty and quaint in their costumes with little white veils over their heads. Mr. Nixon told them he had seen the Leningrad ballet the evening before and had to be neutral, but he added he had never seen a more stirring and splendid performance. The rest of us did not have to be neutral. This ballet in the vast packed opera house of this industrial city of Siberia was superior. The vice president asked for a record by their orchestra. He had made a generous, sincere talk which they liked. Then we came out.

This was something one does not forget. There were at least a thousand people there who had waited outside all through the ballet. They were young, old, and middle-aged. Demonstrations can be contrived. This was spontaneous.

The faces of these people were wonderful. They wanted to shake hands, to touch us, to cry to us "friendship and peace." They were happy, excited and warm of heart.

An Isolated Village Not Many Years Ago

This is a city in the southwestern extremity of the West Siberian plain. It is in Asian Russia in the Ob River valley. Not too many years ago it was an isolated village of no importance. Today, it is a city of almost a million persons.

Novosibirsk has been a closed city. Few outsiders have been here. This delegation of Americans was the first group ever to come in numbers. Almost none of the 900,000 people here had ever seen an American. On arrival, during our stay, and at departure the crowds were as curious as if we were people from another world. Certainly there was no hatred. There was an almost childish interest and enthusiasm. We in America could be making a mistake in assuming that the words "peace" and "friendship" are but propaganda words by the Soviets. These people see nothing of a cliché in repeating them over and over.

This city, which was not here at all a short time ago, explains something of Russia. It has been said that the Russian of today is better off than ever before and some ask that this be explained.

In terms of what he wears and has on his plate, it can't be done. The best way to explain it is to say that this is another Russia. Novosibirsk in no wise resembles the small river village of a few years ago. The serfs were not freed until 1863. They were not permitted to leave their village until after the revolution in 1917.

Russia once was the most agricultural of all the large countries, with something like 90 per cent of her people living on the land. Today, they are in vast new industrial cities which have just begun to scratch the surface of the great deposits of iron, bauxite, gold, other metals and oil. Just a little over 40 years ago this was a village of landbound serfs and nobles. Today, it is a vital, pioneer-spirited city of almost a million persons with a really large and impressive scientific center and school to train its young people. Vice Admiral Hyman Rickover was greatly impressed.

Americans Mustn't Oversimplify Situation

My point is that Americans must not oversimplify this situation. There is a huge machine works here. Its production manager is 32 years old. It is turning out immense machines, pumps and huge stamping and metal planing equipment. I saw some machines from the United States and Great Britain which were sent here during the lend-lease program. The management was frank. Most of the surplus production is being sold to Red China and Hungary. All over the world the machine is driving the peasant from the land.

The descendants of the serfs of 42 years ago who lived in a muddy river town now have an attractive central city. Its environs are raw with growth but there are factories, opera, ballet, universities and research centers. And as long as I live I'll never forget the hundreds of people about our bus as it left the opera house, shaking hands, laughing, smiling and crying "Come back, friendship, and peace."

Congress Votes $23 Million For Lockheed-Type Planes

WASHINGTON—Congress has approved a $23,400,000 appropriation for purchase of 14 jet planes of a type manufactured at Lockheed Aircraft Corporation's Marietta, Ga., plant.

Approval does not mean that Lockheed will get the contract. McDonnell Aircraft of St. Louis makes a similar craft.

However, approval of the funds by a Senate-House conference committee Thursday, at the instance of Sen. Russell, means that the planes will be bought.

(When the House approved the bill it struck out the money for the jets. Russell got the funds restored in the Senate and then in the conference committee.)

The 14 jets in question are to be used by the Air Force as pilot-navigation trainers. Lockheed's trade name for this type of jet is the JetStar.

Last year $8,500,000 was appropriated for five such jets. This means the Air Force will now have $31,900,000 to buy a total of 19 aircraft.

Meanwhile, it was announced in Marietta Thursday that Pan American World Airways had placed $60 million order for 12 Super Hercules air freighters at the Marietta plant. This is the largest commercial order ever received there.

Mercury to Hover In 90s for 2 Days

Atlantans sweltered through the second hottest day of the year Thursday. No relief is in sight for the next two days.

The mercury in Atlanta Thursday bounced from a 73-low to a sizzling 96. The 96-high was this year's second hottest here, topped only by the 97 registered July 1. Atlanta also had a 96-high June 30.

The weather bureau predicts Friday and Saturday will be just like every day has been this week: partly cloudy, hot, with scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers. Highs are expected to be 94 Friday and 92 Saturday. Lows expected: a warm 72 each day.

Thursday's high—the seventh above-90 reading this month—was only one degree below the record for a July 30 which was set in 1936.

The Discomfort Index reached an uncomfortable 84 here. At 70 on that scale, some people are

U.S. Defers Integration In Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A federal judge refused Thursday to order integration of Dallas schools this fall. But he told the school board to "put your house in order" for integration which he said will surely come.

Judge T. Whitfield Davidson, 82, opened the day-long hearing by stating his love for Southern traditions but promising a fair hearing. He closed the hearing with what sounded like a lecture to Negro spectators.

"As long as he—the Negro—begins imitating his white brother he is not at his best," said the gray-haired judge. "If you want to rise in life, there is a way. That is to excel."

"A year from now may be sufficient time to integrate. We will not name any date or issue any order."

"The school board should further study this question and perhaps take further action, maybe an election."

Thurgood Marshall, chief counsel for the National Assn. for Advancement of Colored People, threw his pencil on the table. A strong look of disappointment crossed his face.

Marshall and other Negro attorneys had surprised the courtroom by indicating they were willing to wait until 1960 for integration.

Heat Hits Taipei

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The second big heat wave of the year is afflicting Taipei. The mercury soared today to 99, only one degree below the highest ever recorded here.

"I hope that this may be one of the first steps which will be followed by others increasing the contacts between the leaders and people of our two countries," Nixon declared.

It was this statement that seemed to indicate clearly the Vice President's belief that it might be well for the heads of the two world powers to exchange visits.

Nixon recalled that "time after time" we had heard top Soviet leaders as well as the officials and ordinary people he had met during his tour, express their desire for peace.

"I can assure you," he declared, "that this represents the

Ike Names Georgian as Herter Aide

Walter C. Dowling, native Georgian and graduate of Mercer University, is the choice of President Eisenhower for the next assistant secretary of state for European Affairs, it was learned Thursday.

Dowling, currently U.S. ambassador in Korea and a member of the diplomatic corps for 27 years, will replace Livingston T. Merchant, whose nomination as deputy undersecretary of state for Political Affairs was made public Thursday.

The New York Times News Service said Dowling's selection completes the reshuffling of the major assignments which began at the State Department when Secretary Herter replaced the late John Foster Dulles.

Dowling has moved steadily up the ladder in the diplomatic corps since he joined the State Department in 1932. His service embraced work in Oslo, Lisbon, Rome, Rio de Janeiro, Vienna, Bonn and Korea.

Dowling was born in Atkinson on Aug. 4, 1905. Atkinson, in Brantley County, is near Brunswick.

Dowling graduated from Mercer in 1925 and served a while as private secretary to the late Howard Coffin at Sea Island. He entered foreign service in 1932, and immediately after World War II he served in the Department of State as assistant chief of the division of South European Affairs.

In 1949 he was named deputy

State Halts Work On $5 Million in U.S.-Aid Roads

Wait Action On Fund by Congress

By GENE BRITTON

The State Highway Board Thursday held up work orders on $5.2 million worth of federal aid contracts awarded last week.

The halt was attributed to lack of action by Congress in appropriating new funds for the federal interstate and federal aid roadbuilding programs.

Board member Robert Jordan announced the hold-up on work orders after State Auditor B. E. Thrasher wrote Board Chairman Jim Gillis, suggesting Gillis attempt to get certification from the Bureau of Public Roads that federal funds to cover the contracts would be made available.

Gillis was out of his office and not available for comment.

Jordan said he doubted the federal highway agency would give any such concrete assurance.

He said the work orders were held up "until further notice" pending some kind of indication as to what Congress plans to do, however.

"It's entirely possible we may not be able to proceed on the work orders unless the situation (on highway appropriation legislation) is cleared up in Washington," he said.

Jordan said the National Association of Highway Officials has called "what amounts to an emergency meeting" in Chicago Saturday to discuss the highway crisis. The highway department's chief engineer, M. L. Shadburn, will represent Georgia at the meeting, he said.

In his letter to Gillis Thursday, he said.

Anti-Bomb Clause Widened by Dixie

Constitution Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Southerners won still another modification of civil rights legislation in the House Judiciary Committee Thursday when they broadened an anti-bombing provision to include all types of structures.

Before the committee was a proposal by the Eisenhower administration to make it a federal crime to flee across state lines to avoid prosecution for bombing a church or a school.

Southern members regarded this as being aimed solely at the South, where there have been some bombings of schools, churches and synagogues during integration disputes in recent years.

GET GOP AID
But instead of fighting it, the Dixie lawmakers got Republican help and broadened the provision to apply to any bombings of any type of building or vehicle.

As modified, the provision now would strike at bombings in labor disputes or any other type of bombing anywhere in the nation. And the Southerners voted for it.

Rep. E. L. (Tic) Forrester of Leesburg, Ga., and the other Southern members launched an attack on other provisions of the civil rights bill, including proposals for federal aid to help schools desegregate.

PANEL ADJOURNS
With this attack they forced an adjournment of the committee until next Tuesday, thus winning further delay.

The broadening of the anti-bombing provision was definitely a Southern victory and marked the third Dixie triumph thus far in modifying the bill before the committee.

The first Southern gain was the defeat of a "Part Three" force provision to enable the attorney general to seek federal injunctions to enforce all kinds of civil rights, including the right to attend a non-segregated school.

FORRESTER SATISFIED
The Southerners scored again when the committee struck out an "FEPC" provision to prohibit racial discrimination in employment on government contract jobs.

Forrester, who has been button-holing Republicans for support of the Southern cause, expressed satisfaction Thursday at the success.

Nixon Hints He Favors Swap Of Visits by Ike, Khrushchev

By OSGOOD CARUTHERS
(Copyright 1959, The New York Times Co.)

SVERDLOVSK, U.S.S.R.—Vice President Nixon gave a strong indication Thursday that he favored a visit by Premier Khrushchev to the United States and perhaps a similar visit by President Eisenhower to the Soviet Union.

This proposal has been the subject of considerable speculation in Moscow, on the tour Nixon is now making through Western Siberia and the Urals and also in Western capitals.

And there has been a feeling that the Vice President, following his many contacts with the Soviet people as well as with Khrushchev, was preparing to suggest such a visit to President Eisenhower when he returned home next week.

The sense of the Vice President's thinking was revealed in a speech he made during lunch Thursday at the grimy old central Urals mining town of Degtyarsk, about 50 miles west of Sverdlovsk across the great divide that separates Europe from Asia.

Toasting his hosts before making an inspection of one of the deep copper mines in the area, Nixon spoke of the importance of close contact to increase understanding and help resolve some of the differences between the Soviet Union and the United States.

His own visit, he said, had been extremely valuable toward this end.

MRS. SMITH FOUGHT BACK

Housewife Fights Off Slasher for Third Time

CANOGA PARK, Calif. (AP)—"Now you are going to know how it feels to be ugly. I'm going to scar you like you scarred me."

A knife-wielding man with a livid scar on his face snarled the threat at a pretty housewife fighting to escape his slashes.

Mrs. Patricia Faye Smith, 30, was engulfed again in terror—a terror that has followed her four years.

A life of constant fear began for Mrs. Smith in 1955.

"I was ironing in the kitchen," she says. "Suddenly there was a hand over my mouth and an arm around my waist. I was lifted off my feet and pushed toward the bedroom."

"I swung the hot iron as I looked around. The iron hit him right in the face. He let go, screamed and held his hands to his face. I could smell burned flesh."

A short time later she received a letter with pasted letters spelling out: "I'll get you."

Three months later she answered a knock on her door. The same man was back—this time with a three-inch scar slashing his cheek.

He knocked her down. With the help of her son, Jimmie, then 4, she fought him off.

Police advised the family to move. They did. But within weeks the scar-faced man walked up to the car in which Mrs. Smith was sitting with her husband, James, at a drive-in movie.

"I'm not forgetting you," he said. "I'll be back."

Sketch of Scarred Assailant

Again the Smiths moved. Last week Mrs. Smith began getting threatening phone calls.

"I'm coming back to finish the job," the voice said.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Smith was washing clothes in her garage when she felt a knife at her back. She turned and there was the scar-faced man.

"Now I'm going to get you,"

5 in Family Die In Alabama as Train Hits Car

COLUMBIANA, Ala. (UPI)—Five members of a vacationing family of seven including three children, were killed near here Thursday when their car collided with a Southern Railway's train.

The victims were Otis Z. Zuiderhoek, 39, of Glastonbury, Conn., his wife, Edith, 35, and three of their children, Roy, 13, Debra, 7, and Russell, 3.

Two other children, were reported in critical condition.

The family was en route to Mobile to visit Zuiderhoek's parents.

Aid Scandal Denied By Viet Nam Envoy

WASHINGTON (AP)—A newspaper writer's charges of waste and inefficiency in foreign aid administration were denounced by government officials Thursday as distorted and inaccurate. The author stood firm and offered to produce witnesses in support of his statements.

At issue was the U.S. foreign aid program in Viet Nam. This was pictured as an outrageous scandal in a recent series of articles from Saigon by Albert M. Colegrove, staff writer for the Scripps-Howard newspapers.

A Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee called U.S. officials back from Saigon and State Department officials in for a public hearing.

'DISTORTED, UNINFORMED'

Distorted and unfounded was the way Elbridge Durbrow, U.S. Ambassador to Viet Nam, described Colegrove's articles. Durbrow said the writer had not checked with Arthur Z. Gardiner, director of the foreign aid mission to Viet Nam, or with Lt. Gen. Samuel Williams, head of the U.S. military advisory assistance group while he was in Saigon.

Colegrove offered a point-by-point defense of his articles. He said he did not see Williams because the general was absent from the city when he was in Saigon. He did not talk with Gardiner, Colegrove said, because he already had talked with 40 or 50 other people before Gardiner was available.

"I do not blame the Vietnamese for the American aid fiasco there," Colegrove testified. "I do blame American officials who have not watched out how U.S. tax dollars have been spent."

OFFERS CORROBORATION

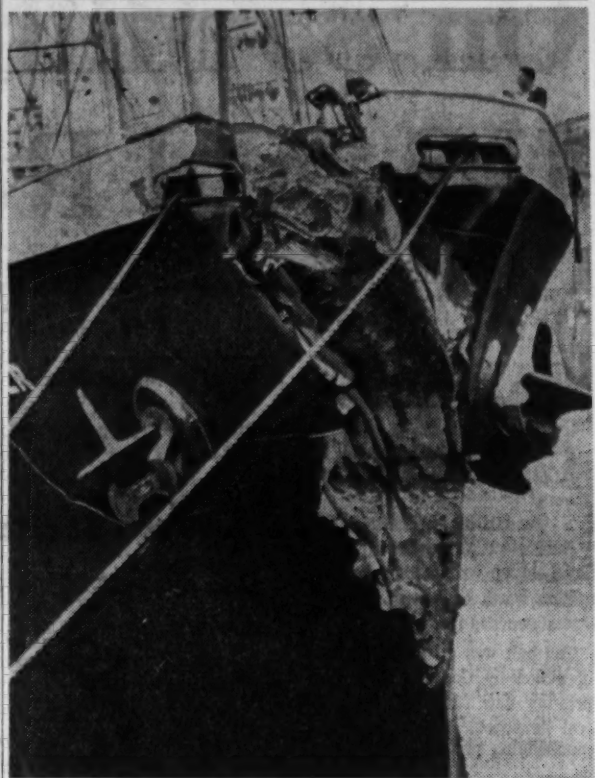

"I think we can uphold our allies without holding up our taxpayers," he said.

Colegrove offered to supply the subcommittee at a closed session with witnesses or names of informants who he said would back up his statements. He said Frank Gonder, an American businessman representing the Bethlehem Steel Co., would testify about losing a bid for a steel bridge contract although his bid was lower than that submitted by the winning firm, which had Belgian sources of supply.

The subcommittee told the State Department and foreign aid officials to submit a "full and complete statement either admitting or denying" the accusations of irregularities.

Colegrove also criticized the purchase of 236 tractors for Viet Nam. He said they included 10 different brands, which he said created special problems in maintenance.

Big 4 Turn Over Impasse to Experts

GENEVA (AP)—The Big Four foreign ministers took a small step Thursday toward a Berlin truce, but left all their basic differences unresolved.

For the first time in the nine weeks of their stalemated conference, the ministers agreed to turn over some technical problems on Berlin to a group of their experts.

The experts were instructed to meet Friday morning and report to a secret meeting of the ministers less than five hours later on some of the possible technical conditions of a truce agreement.

These conditions might include a ban on nuclear weapons and on subversive activities in Berlin, arrangements for continued free access to the city from West Germany, and a limitation of the Western garrisons in West Berlin.

Western informants said the experts could not discuss any question of principle. This meant that whatever recommendations the experts might agree on, they could not make the kind of progress which President Eisenhower has said is required here to justify a summit conference.

U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Andrew H. Berding said the agreement putting the experts to work was "one further move to speed up the work of the conference" to meet the Aug. 5 cutoff date set by the Western ministers.

The Western spokesmen were reluctant to give a full list of the points on which the experts were to seek agreed wording.

Berding gave only one example: He said the experts were instructed to pinpoint the types of non-conventional weapons, such as missiles and nuclear arms, which would be barred from Berlin under a truce agreement.

Red Terror Breaks Out In Laos

(Copyright 1959, The New York Times Co.) SAIGON, Vietnam—Large-scale communist terrorist activities are reported to have broken out in the Buddhist kingdom of Laos.

A Laotian government communiqué received here said communist rebel bands had been attacking national army border posts in Samneua Province in northern Laos and were "threatening the kingdom."

The government of Samneua has ordered the evacuation of residents of the troubled areas, according to reports from Vientiane, the administrative capital of Laos.

The attackers are believed to be part of a group of former Pathet Lao irregulars reinforced with communist north Vietnamese officer cadres and estimated to total 1,000, Laotian government sources said.

The Laotian government communiqué laid the strife to the communist-front political party Neo Lao Haksat, or patriotic front, which formerly was known as Pathet Lao, or free Laos, a communist guerrilla movement organized with the help of the Vietnamese leader, Ho Chi Minh.

Father of 3 Gets Death In Rape Case

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—An all-white jury Thursday night convicted a young Negro father charged with raping a white housewife and recommended the death penalty.

The jury deliberated two hours and seven minutes before bringing in a verdict against Drewry Aaron, a 23-year-old father of three.

Aaron showed no emotion when Judge Eugene Carter read the verdict and sentenced him to death in the electric chair.

Shortly before the case went to the jury Solicitor William F. Thetford declared, "This is the roughest, meanest, nastiest, most horrible rape case I've seen in the nine years I have been here."

Deputy Solicitor Robert B. Stewart said, "There can be only one verdict and that is guilty. There can be only one punishment and that is death in the electric chair."

What Are Motives Of Airport Probe?

A press release from the legislative committee headed by Rep. Edgar Blacklock of Clayton County to "investigate" the Atlanta Airport says the committee "is extremely curious" why there has been such a large increase recently in parking concession revenue.

Satisfying such curiosity would come under the normal business of such an investigation. But such statements from an investigating committee prior to making any attempt to establish facts cast strong doubts on the motives behind the investigation and on any conclusions it might draw.

The committee evidently has made up its mind in advance. Considering the fact that Rep. Blacklock has been feuding with the Atlanta city administration and airport management over this facility for years, we cannot see how it could do an objective job. Clayton's two representatives, through legislative courtesy practices, had the investigation set up.

There have been numerous investigations of the airport, mostly politically inspired, in the past. Nothing was found to justify the wild and irresponsible charges which usually could be traced to the same sources. Through it all the airport has grown in usefulness, its services have been improved and the biggest expansion program of all has been undertaken through financing by the City of Atlanta.

Insinuations about "negotiated contracts" are nothing new. The present system was set up under the guidance and direction of experts of the New York Port Authority, under contract with the city and drawing upon the knowledge learned through years of experience in New York and elsewhere.

The airport is one of the most important in the country. It is vital to Atlanta and to Clayton County. Thousands of Clayton County citizens make their living there. But it has been developed through the vision of Atlanta leaders and with Atlanta funds. It is the property of the people of this city.

If the committee has anything constructive in mind with its investigation, let it proceed to do a constructive job. If its aims are merely to rehash a lot of old political smears, resulting in interference with administration and development of this facility, it will be a public disservice of great magnitude.

State Hospital Firetraps Demand Prompt Action

Now that public opinion is behind the projected general cleanup of conditions at the Milledgeville State Hospital, Fire Safety Commissioner Zack Cravey shows signs of bestirring himself about fire hazards there.

In fact, he says he has been worried about the situation for years. He has "gone on record" with every administration as saying something ought to be done.

There the matter rested. Cravey failed to use the powers of his office to force a showdown. But the wind has shifted now and the commissioner gives indications of planning to come to grips with the problem if the Legislature fails to do so.

Better late than never, we suppose. But the important thing is not so much who initiates or gets credit for correcting the hazards. What really matters is getting the job done—and soon.

No one in authority to do something about the situation should be able to rest comfortably as long as patients are relegated to firetraps.

Lockheed Moves Ahead As Aviation Pacesetter

It's good news that Lockheed's Georgia Division has received its largest order for commercial planes in history of the plant. Pan American has contracted for 12 special long-range Lockheed 207 prop-jet airliners at a cost of 60 million dollars.

Purchase of these 12 plus an additional 21 million dollars from another commercial line will make the Marietta plant the leading builder of commercial airliners in the world. This assures a continued high level of production and employment at this fine facility.

The huge new cargo carrier can operate nonstop across the Atlantic with a 35-ton payload. It increases the competitive position of air freight with other carriers, cutting considerably into costs of carrying cargo and mail.

In addition to its great possibilities as freight carrier for commercial uses, the huge aircraft's military potential would seem to be equally as great. As a troop and equipment transport it probably exceeds any aircraft in use today.

All Georgia continues to be proud of the Lockheed plant and the contribution it is making to aviation, to national security and the state's economy.

House Group Dodges Road Financing Issue

The House Ways and Means Committee has recommended that the financial crisis facing the interstate highway building program be met with a billion dollar revenue bond issue. It also called for a drastic slowing down of the 41-billion-dollar program until cash could cover the operations.

It requested further that about one fifth of the revenue now derived from excise taxes on autos be diverted from general funds into the highway fund—approximately one billion dollars.

The committee thus rejected President Eisenhower's request for an additional 1½ cents per gallon tax on gasoline to keep the program on schedule. It also demonstrated a favorite congressional habit of passing the buck and dodging fiscal responsibility.

Contrary to a letter from the executive secretary of the Petroleum Industry Association in Georgia, published elsewhere on this page today, the stretchout plan as proposed by the committee would mean a four-year delay in completing the interstate program—not merely a few months.

The committee proposes to add further to the nation's public debt and to the cost of the interstate program through interest-bearing bonds. All rationalization to the contrary, this would be inflationary.

Under this proposed financing plan, federal funds on the 90-10 matching program for 1960-61 would be reduced by about three fourths. This seems to sustain Highway Board Chairman Jim Gillis' conclusions.

The House committee, it seems to us, not only is proposing a long delay in completing the interstate system but is offering inflation and added costs as alternatives to levying taxes for a program Congress voted. If the President should veto it, the interstate system would be delayed indefinitely.

Gen. Persons Served Country Long and Well

Retirement today of Maj. Gen. John W. Persons as commanding general of the Fourteenth Air Force at Robins Air Force Base brings to an end the distinguished military career of a representative of one of the South's most colorful and distinguished families.

On hand for the ceremonies at this base near Macon will be three of his brothers, including Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, assistant to President Eisenhower; former governor Gordon Persons, of Alabama; and Frank S. Persons, Episcopal minister of Montgomery.

The retiring commander is a veteran of 31 years of service in the Army and Air Force. He has held top commands in the United States, Alaska and the Far East. He became chief of the Flying Tiger Air Force in 1957, continuing his record of valuable service.

Many top officials of the Air Force will be present for the salute to Gen. Persons as he retires to private life at age 60. We join his thousands of friends in tribute and wish for him many happy and useful years in the future.

Landrum Gains Support For Better Labor Bill

President Eisenhower has given strong support to the proposed substitute labor bill sponsored by Georgia's Rep. Phil Landrum and Rep. Griffin of Michigan. Sen. McClellan, whose committee investigations led to the labor reform movement in Congress, in effect has done the same thing.

While it is doubtful the House will go along completely, there is a possibility its membership will strengthen somewhat the watered-down measure the House Labor Committee finally approved.

Certainly the need for a labor reform bill which will protect rank-and-file members from excesses and abuses by their leaders and from corrupt management dealings with them has been well established.

As Roscoe Pound, dean emeritus of Harvard Law School, said recently:

"Unions are an institution needed in the life of today. They are to be preserved and fostered as useful, even if we cannot treat them as peculiar favorites of government at the expense of the general public interest. . . . What is sought is not to destroy or impair them but to fit them into the legal, social and economic system of the era on which we have definitely entered."

Congress owes it to the country to come up with a bill which will achieve the objective of which Dean Pound speaks.

Lack of Federal Aid Funds for Highways Laid to Congressional 'Speedup' Program

Atlanta — In reply to the article, "State Fears Halting of Road Work" which appears on page one of your July 29 edition, in which Highway Board Chairman Jim Gillis was quoted as saying, "The State Highway Department will go virtually out of business unless Congress appropriates additional federal aid funds," I would respectfully like to point out:

First, the federal aid program for primary, secondary and urban roads on a 50-50 matching basis is not part of the financial dilemma presently under consideration by Congress.

Secondly, the present dilemma involves only a temporary delay in financing the interstate program which is on a 90-10 matching basis. Under this program construction cannot come to a standstill as more money than ever before will be spent in 1960-1961.

Bertram D. Tallamy, director, Bureau of Public Roads, stated before Congress last week that over two billion dollars for 1960 and almost two billions for 1961 already has been apportioned to the states.

Thirdly, the present dilemma is caused by a "speedup" in the interstate program enacted by Congress last year as an anti-recession measure, which depleted the Highway Trust Fund faster than income under present tax receipts. To overcome the temporary delay caused by the "speedup," it has been proposed to either make up the difference or issue short-term bonds to finance the deficit period. Either of these plans would solve the dilemma but without burdening the already overburdened motorist with increased taxes.

Enslaved Russian People Know Khrushchev Lies!

Premier Khrushchev has gone to great pains to make clear his displeasure at our country's observance of Captive Nations Week. His annoyance is understandable. It has long been a prime goal of his foreign policy, as it was of Stalin's, to force the West to accept the legitimacy and permanence of the Communist territorial conquests.

Our continued observance of Captive Nations Week testifies to the failure of this effort.

Let us recall some of the facts which Khrushchev tries to suggest he has forgotten:

Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania were independent nations two decades ago until the Red Army occupied them and carried out farcical "elections" which resulted in their incorporation into the Soviet Union.

The East German revolt of June, 1953, and the Hungarian Revolution of October-November, 1956, are recent enough so that Khrushchev should remember that it required Soviet tanks and bayonets in the streets of East Berlin and Budapest to keep those peoples captive.

Even the Communists themselves have sometimes admitted that the Soviet people are not free. Here, for example, is the way Pravda put the matter as recently as July 6, 1956: "As concerns our country, the Communist Party was, and is, the only sovereign of the thoughts, spokesmen of the ideas and aspirations, director and organizer of the people during the entire duration of its struggle for communism."

Are people free when they must endure, in Pravda's expressive word, a "sovereign" over their thoughts? If the Soviet people were free they would be able to think as they wish, to read what they like, to tune in to any radio broadcast they wished to hear, to choose their own rulers and to travel abroad without permission as they please. They have none of these rights of free men.

If Premier Khrushchev is so desirous of convincing us that his people are free, why does he not take the obvious steps? Why does he not lift the Iron Curtain? Why does he not permit the free movement of people and ideas into and out of his country? Why does he not submit himself to the ordeal of a free election?

There are many kinds of slavery. But of all these kinds, enslavement of the minds of a great people is the most terrible. And that is the slavery of the Soviet people.

On this one I thoroughly disagree with you.

If the press of our country will pressure the public and lawmakers of this country into passing a pay raise for our servicemen equal to other workers in government, the young boys that are being taken away from their jobs and homes to serve their country would save funds to pay for their education when they returned.

I am confident I do not stand alone in considering you shamefully wrong.

'Troublemakers Are Police Headache'

Atlanta — Several letters in The Constitution hit the bulls-eye of truth.

Flush out the troublemakers and fully 50 per cent of our overworked, efficient police will have many of their headaches relieved.

In sections where trouble reigns, undercover agents could spot the chief troublemakers and, with them in jail, our police could devote their efforts elsewhere.

RANDY SOMERSMITH.

Article on Alcoholics Called Misleading

Marietta — The article on alcoholics in the July 22 Constitution implied that the churches were unenlightened and were opposed to the insights of the experts who delve into the problem.

True, reporter Davis says "some religious groups" are part of this controversy but he fails to point out that the first authority on alcohol he quotes is himself a Presbyterian minister. When he quotes two ministers, he is only referring to two spokesmen.

It may well be true that the majority of ministers in Georgia fail to recognize that an alcoholic is an emotionally immature person who needs understanding, not condemnation. But the mainstream of Christian thought throughout the centuries is more in keeping with the authorities than with these religious leaders.

The majority of Christendom on a worldwide basis does not teach abstinence or condemnation of those who drink alcohol, but temperance and responsible use of freedom.

The Apostolic Churches (Episcopal, Orthodox, Roman and Lutheran) would be in agreement with the experts in the study of this dread disease.

The Terminal Gets Attention

"The grand old lady of passenger stations in the South, Atlanta's Terminal" is the subject of a picture-story in Trains, the Magazine of Railroad, for August. The magazine features a "then" picture, before the station lost its towers, and a "shot" of the terminal today. The text says the "Grand Old Lady" has "lost her towers and arch shed, but a measure of pomp and ceremony lingers on." Four pages of pictures include one captioned: "Saw-toothed 4-6-2 290 . . . a Lima U.S.R.A. lineage, takes a sunbath in Terminal Station in 1949, not long before the diesels took over."

LOST LANGUAGE: C. W. (Chuck) Smith came home from a July trip to Europe for Lockheed to report he saw Hanns Rode in Bonn and visited in the Rode home. Many of us knew the Rode family delightedly for the several years this native German was with the consulate here.

"Chuck" Smith says the Rodes' daughter Barbara has been having a little trouble at school with, of all things, German.

SIGN UP: Beth Williams says the bookkeeping department at a bank in Quitman has a sign up saying "Old Bookkeepers Never Die, They Just Lose Their Balance."

"Old So-and-So" signs apparently never die either. They just hang on.

OUT OF BUSINESS: "Going Out of Business" sales must be legitimate in Washington, D.C., or else go out of business, if the Washington Merchants and Manufacturers Assn. has its way. The association would require a special license for a "closing out" sale and a penalty for false application.

As a sucker, I can see the need. I bought gimeracks at a "Fire Sale" store in New York City, where, I would swear now, the burned-out smell had been sprayed on.

Which all reminds me of the merchant who said his son would soon be out of college and could go out of business for himself.

Diplomats Tut-Tut Nixon Approach

WASHINGTON—The striped-pants set, as the old career diplomats are called, tend to tut-tut Vice President Nixon's bare-knuckled "politician's" approach in Russia. But the truly responsible chiefs at the State Department—those who, under the President, actually run our foreign policy—are delighted by his performance in the first, or Moscow, phase of his mission.

Three circumstances have confused many estimates as to the effectiveness of the vice president's trip. There is the quite hidden fact of his fierce ambition. Of course, he wants to be president after 1960—as do some of his critics, too. There is the fact that, partly because of his past partisan savageries, he has enemies who will never credit him with doing anything well. And most important of all there is this: Some have never understood what his assignment really was and was not.

If the real purposes of his journey are understood, this much can be said with complete confidence: It is not necessary to be for Nixon for president or to "like" him or "approve" of him in the smallest possible way to demonstrate that the Moscow phase has gone very well.

The complaint has been made that Nixon is "not a diplomat" and has not acted like one. This is absolutely correct—and absolutely irrelevant. The complaint has been made that he has been "acting just like a politician." This is absolutely correct—and absolutely irrelevant. The complaint has been made that he has been trading some tough and highly unreserved words with Nikita Khrushchev. That he has. But there was no mistake in this; quite the contrary.

For to trade such words with Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders was one of the two main reasons Nixon was sent to Moscow by the administration. His other main purpose was to set at rest, if he could, what our top people are willing to concede were some honest misconceptions by Khrushchev about the United States.

The bottom truth about the Nixon mission is simply this: The time had come when the cold war was too important to be left to the diplomats—as old Premier Clemenceau of France once said that a hot war was too important to be left to the generals.

Diplomats, after all, are employees. If elevated ones. "Politicians," however dreadful the word, still make the policy—and run the show.

Certainly Nixon is running hard for president. But the very fact he might one day be president of the United States was the ultimate reason why he was sent to Russia in the first place. This was done not to assist Richard Nixon but to assist the high policy of this country. If it all helps him politically, as well it might, everybody concerned will just have to live with that fact.

What Are Things You Want Most?

Dr. Leslie D. Weatherhead, pastor of London's City Temple, writes: "There is no truer word than that of our Lord when he said, 'Man shall not live by bread alone.' 'If thou hast two loaves,' said Mohammed, 'sell one and buy lilies.' For full living we feel need of beauty."

"Many a man, pretending to be irreligious, nourishes his soul on nature, on poetry, on art, on music, on love, on the truth of mathematics or the goodness of some secret hero, on the moral values which his parents sowed in his mind when he was a child, and on the friendship of others. It is a figure of speech we do not often use, but it would be true to say man eats these things."

What are the minimum requirements you need for zestful and victorious living? I wonder if many of us have not set our material minimums too high.

If each of us were to write down those things which we consider essential to good living, we might be surprised to discover how brief our lists would be.

We are forever considering the things that cost too much and we seldom think of the things that cost us nothing. Check over the really important things in life which Dr. Weatherhead lists above. See how many of them cannot be purchased either in a store for highbrows or in the bargain basement where most of us go!

What do you most want in life? I've listed those things which mean most to me. First, I want a sense of belonging to this world.

Returning Brood Interrupts Sleep

Some years ago I remember writing a column to the effect that the sweetest sound a parent ever hears is the voice of his young in a darkened bedroom whispering, "Hey, Pop, I'm home." He can go to sleep then, not worrying about the wail of ambulance sirens or hears in the distance, for his brood is safely back in the nest.

That still holds true. But there are two sides to every coin and the reason for these bags under my eyes is because my youngsters are so well trained I don't get my rest any more.

Due to advancing years or rural background or something, I like to get to bed around 10 o'clock. That means that about 11, when the youngest one comes in from the movie, where she has been with her girl friend, I am sound asleep. So she comes back and rouses me gently to announce her arrival and she sits down on the side of the bed and tells me the plot of the movie and then she goes to bed and it is about half an hour before I can get back to sleep.

Then along about midnight or maybe a little later there is the roar of double exhausts in the driveway and the second one, who has been out showing off his new car to the gang, comes clomping down the hall to announce in the deep voice of a 17-year-old that he is safely in the nest again.

I lie awake another half hour until the third one comes. He works on the paper at night and like all newspapermen who work at night he likes to sit up for awhile after the paper has been put to bed, drinking a cup of coffee with the boys on the copy desk. So it is about 2 o'clock when he arrives and he sits down on the side of the bed and tells me all the news that's happened since I left the office in the afternoon. For this is just the end of his day and he is full of talk and I do not have the heart to tell him that I can wait for the news until morning.

Finally I get back to sleep again and there is the rustle of skirts and the smell of perfume and somebody pulls my ear to announce that she's sorry she's getting in so late but after the dance they went for a drive and the moon was a wonderful thing to see and she had more fun and he's already asked her for another date.

And by now it is 3 o'clock and I have slept, so far, a total of maybe two hours. But the end is not yet. At 4 o'clock the dog, in his basket over in the corner, rouses and stretches and scratches a flea, bumping his foot hard against the floor; then he goes to the front hall and stands there whining to be let out. So I get up and let him out. Then at 5 o'clock when I again am snoring there comes a great thump on the door and there he is knocking to get back in again.

Then about 5:30 the cross rally round to greet the dawn and cuss my cat and the squirrels and the jaybirds start their morning uproar and day is come and there's no use trying to sleep any more.

3 Convicts Flee at Alma, Set Off Wide Manhunt

An intensive manhunt was touched off in southeast Georgia Thursday after a trio of convicts escaped from a work detail at the Bacon County High School at Alma.

It was the third break in two days at state prison branches. Three convicts—in two separate escapes—fled work details at the Jefferson County branch Wednesday, but all three were recaptured by early Thursday morning.

The trio involved in the latest breakout were in Bacon County as part of a 30-man work force from the Ware County prison branch at Waycross.

BUILDING GYM
State Corrections Director Jack Forrester said the Ware prisoners were assisting in the construction of a school gymnasium for the Bacon County Board of Education.

No violence was reported in the escape. First reports indicated the three white convicts ducked behind some construction equipment and slipped away.

Bloodhounds from Jesup and Waycross were dispatched to the scene immediately after the break occurred shortly before noon. Forrester said Ware Warden Arthur Clay was ordered to Alma to take charge of the search.

Forrester said none of the three fugitives had a previous escape record. He identified them as:

William V. McCracken, 26, serving nine years for robbery from Fulton County; James Dyer, 38, two to four years for forgery from DeKalb and Fulton counties; and George W. Strickland, 27, five to seven years for burglary from Ware County.

TRACKED DOWN
At the Jefferson County branch near Louisville, Warden W. B. Pippin said escapee Garrett Gray Jr., 28, was tracked down by bloodhounds early Thursday in a Wilkes County swamp near Washington.

He said Gray, serving fifteen to twenty years for burglary from Franklin County, had escaped Wednesday morning from a work detail near Midville in south Jefferson County. The fugitive stole a car in Midville and abandoned it at Washington some 60 miles to the north, the warden said.

Two other prisoners escaped Wednesday morning from a work detail in north Jefferson, Pippin said. They were "run down with dogs" about three hours later, he added.

They were identified as Vance Thompson, 25, serving three to five years for larceny from Bulloch County, and Woodrow W. Copeland, 41, serving 20 years for burglary from Richmond County.

79 on Plane Land Safe as Engine Fails
SHANNON, Ireland (UPI) — A huge double-decked British Overseas Airways Corp. Stratocruiser carrying 79 persons was forced to turn back from a flight to Boston Thursday when it developed mechanical trouble.

The plane, under charter to the Appalachian Mountain Club of Boston, made a safe landing at Shannon, where a full emergency alert sent fire engines out to the runway.

Dog Inoculation Is Pressed

"Thousands" of dogs in Fulton County still need anti-rabies inoculations, Dr. James F. Hackney, health commissioner, warned Thursday.

At the same time, Dr. T. R. Sellers, state health director, said failure of dog-owners to take advantage of free rabies clinics now being held by the Fulton County Health Dept. is "a disgrace."

"Vaccine is the only means of protecting the dogs and the public against rabies and it is tragic to see attendance at these free clinics fall off just when victory

Free clinics are scheduled 9 a.m. to noon Aug. 1 at Anderson School, 2050 Tigers Flowers Dr., NW; 2-5 p.m., Aug. 1 at Jere Wells Health Center, 2925 Lakewood Ave., SW; 2-5 p.m., Aug. 4 at Grant Park School, Boulevard and Glenwood Ave., SE; 9 a.m. to noon Aug. 8 at Hill School, 417 Piedmont Ave., NE; 2-5 p.m., Aug. 8 at Guyce School, 1485 Woodland Ave., SE, and 2-5 p.m., Aug. 11 at Croghan School, 1114 West Ave., SW.

Canyon Search May Use Hounds

GRAND CANYON, Ariz. (UP)—Bloodhounds may be used in the hunt for a 16-year-old Savannah, Ga., boy missing for five days in the Grand Canyon.

The National Park Service had little hope that John Manson Owens III would be found alive. He disappeared on a hiking trip along treacherous trails that began last Friday.

The bodies of his companions, the Rev. Eugene Gavigan and Walter J. Mahony were recovered.

Youth Bound Over in Wreck

An East Point youth who was driving an automobile involved in a head-on collision that killed one person and injured another has been bound over to the Fulton Grand Jury.

Juvenile Court Judge W. W. Woolfolk ordered the bindover for William Claude Duren or 2337 Englewood Dr., East Point, who passed his 17th birthday since the tragedy occurred April 13.

The order said Duren, charged with manslaughter, was the driver of a car which struck another on West Washington road in unincorporated Fulton County, killing Mrs. M. L. Adams, 61, of Newnan, and injuring her husband.

It alleged that Duren was on the wrong side of the road at the time of the impact.

Duren was bound over to the grand jury "to be dealt with as an adult." The order said it would be "for the best interest of society and the boy for him to be dealt with as an adult."

WHAT MAKES A WOMAN INTERESTING?

Do you know what sets her apart from others who may be better looking?

The "different" woman, the woman whom others regard as interesting and likeable, has by instinct or training, developed subtle social know-how that enhances everything she does. These differences, which are psychological, not mechanical, are the acquired skills that make the good hostess, the attractive wife, the move ahead career girl. Dorothy Carnegie, president of the famous Dale Carnegie Courses, has created a special course for women that deals not with charm but with living—at your best.

Southerners Win Round 3 on Rights

cess the Dixie forces have score thus far.

He was pleased at the broadening of the anti-bombing proposal to make it apply to private dwellings, industrial plants, stores or any other type structure or vehicle.

"We have covered the waterfront now," the Georgia congressman said.

The anti-bombing provision of the original bill was modified by an amendment from another Southerner, Rep. Loser (D-Tenn.) and Forrester supported it.

Under the Loser amendment, any person traveling in interstate commerce to avoid prosecution for willfully destroying or attempting to destroy by fire or explosion any type of building, facility or vehicle, public or private, would be subject to federal prosecution. Conviction would bring a fine up to $5,000 and imprisonment up to five years.

This provision, dealing with flight from prosecution, would not interfere with the rights of the states to prosecute anyone under state law for an actual bombing or arson offense.

Rep. Celler (D-NY), chairman of the Judiciary Committee and an advocate of extreme civil rights legislation, apparently has been chagrined by Southern successes thus far.

However, Celler objected Thursday to criticism of the committee by Secretary of Labor Mitchell, who deplored the committee's action of Wednesday in eliminating the "fair employment" provision.

Without reaching any decision, or taking a vote, the committee before adjourning until next Tuesday, took up provisions dealing with school desegregation.

One would permit the Commissioner of Education to take over and operate any school built in the future with federal aid if that school is closed down to avoid integration.

Forrester argued against this, declaring it is "hypocritical." The Georgian said that there are already schools on military reservations, such as Ft. Benning, that are owned by the government and are operated on an integrated basis.

Thus, he said, there is no need for the proposed law designed to assure the children of armed services personnel an education in the event of local school closing.

The Georgian also attacked a provision that would recognize the Supreme Court's 1954 school desegregation decision as "the supreme law of the land" that obligates state and local government to desegregate their schools.

bothered; at 75 most people are; at 79, everybody is.

Despite the heat, City Parks officials reported little increase in attendance at Atlanta's swimming holes. "We had about the usual number of swimmers," an official said.

Macon was the unofficial leader of the state's hot-spot parade Thursday as the mercury there zoomed up to 98.

He was appointed deputy high commissioner to West Germany in 1953, and President Eisenhower named him U.S. ambassador to Korea in 1956.

According to the New York Times, Dowling has established a reputation for patience, tact and skill in dealing with the Korean government headed by President Syngman Rhee. Korean service is deemed one of the most difficult and challenging assignments in the diplomatic corps.

Dowling's wife, Walter Dowling, a graduate of Agnes Scott in Atlanta, is the former Alice Jernigan of Sparta. They have two children. Dowling's mother resides in Jesup.

Dowling's promotion replacing Merchant was made possible by Robert D. Murphy's moving up in the State Department hierarchy to undersecretary for political affairs.

Merchant now is in Geneva taking part in the Foreign Ministers' Conference as the top political advisor to Secretary Herter. He has served twice as assistant secretary of state for European affairs. From 1956 to 1958 he was the U.S. ambassador to Canada.

Murphy, 65, has a foreign service career extending over 42 years. He has been assigned numerous times as a "trouble shooter" to foreign countries during political crises. During World War II he served as Gen. Eisenhower's political advisor.

he said. "Now you're going to know how it feels to be ugly."

He ripped off her blouse and slashed her superficially on the arms, shoulders and legs.

"Then Jimmie came home from school and called for me," Mrs. Smith said. "The man slapped me and ran. The last thing he said was: 'I'll be back to finish the job.'"

Mrs. Smith, once an artist, has drawn a sketch of her terrorizer. Police are using it in their attempt to run him down.

Boy, 8, Drowns At East Point

An 8-year-old Negro boy drowned in the Randall street swimming pool in East Point Thursday afternoon.

Police said the body was discovered at 3:30 p.m.

Police say the boy was at the pool of the Negro recreation center with his 20-year-old sister. The boy was from Barnesville, Ga., Rte. 2.

day, Thrasher said he is "somewhat disturbed about the publicity of federal funds for highways not being appropriated."

As state auditor, he said, he is "constantly certifying to various agencies of the federal government as to whether or not state funds are available to match federal aid, and I cannot see where it would be unreasonable for you to request the federal government to furnish the state of Georgia with a certificate...."

FUNDS TO REIMBURSE

Thrasher suggested that Gillis seek certification that the federal government would have funds with which to reimburse Georgia for the federal share of more than $4 million on recent contracts.

Jordan said he thought it would be "wishful thinking" to ask for any such assurance.

In the federal road matching programs, the state pays the full contract price and is reimbursed later by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads for the federal share.

OWED $11,782,000

As of June 30, the federal government owed the state $11,782,000 as reimbursement. During July, the state received payment of $9,700,000, leaving a balance of $2,082,000 due the state. But also in July the Highway Department submitted a new request for additional reimbursement of $5,100,000. The federal government now owes the state a total of about $7,200,000.

Last Friday, the Highway Department awarded contracts for $6.8 million in interstate, federal aid and state aid road work. The federal projects included in the letting carried a price tag of approximately $5.2 million.

Those are the contracts being held up.

Jordan said that, although they have been awarded, they have not yet been signed and are not binding on the state.

Hapeville Holds Budget Surplus Of $60,000

Hapeville is $60,000 on the good side of the budget this year, according to a six-month report submitted by the city's administration department.

Mayor Eugene Dixon says that for the past two years the city has had to borrow money for operating expenses.

"We did have a surplus of about $20,000 in 1956," the mayor said. "Last year we borrowed $30,000 and paid that off in March of this year."

Councilman Cleo C. Martin, chairman of the finance committee, said that the city should end with a surplus this year. He said that some of the surplus would be used for long-needed repairs and building improvements.

"We've had overall efficiency in all departments," Martin said. "Every department and all the councilmen have worked together to stay within the budget."

Nixon Hints Visits By Ike, Khrushchev

Thursday there was little heckling. Only once was there any feeling of our government, our President and our people.

"As far as the government is concerned we want nothing at all from the Soviet Union. We want no territory—not an acre of land."

He spoke briefly also about another major theme that has been raised at all levels during his trip: The question of why the United States maintained military bases abroad. These questions have been raised in connection with the Soviet propaganda campaign against such bases.

Nixon said he would answer in more detail than he had thus far this question of U.S. bases when he spoke on Saturday over the Moscow television network. The television address has been scheduled for Saturday evening as a traditional ending of a visit by an important foreign visitor to the Soviet Union.

"In order to understand why we, along with our allies, do maintain bases it is necessary to understand some of the events that have led up to that situation," Nixon said. He then cited the Berlin blockade and the war in Korea, which he said "inevitably had their effect on our leaders and people."

"But this is not the time to discuss the events of the past that have led to differences in our relations."

Thursday was much easier for Nixon than was Wednesday.

Motel at Jekyll To Be Dedicated By Mine Victim

BRUNSWICK (AP)—The Nova Scotian miner who was housed in trailers when he accepted Georgia's vacation invitation last fall will return Saturday to dedicate a 50-unit motel for Negroes.

Maurice Ruddick, survivor of the Springfield No. 2 Colliery entombment disaster, will be flown to Jekyll Island State Park by the Negro owners of the new facilities.

Ruddick, a mulatto, was among the 100 who accepted Gov. Griffin's invitation to come to Jekyll to rest up from their ordeal. Ruddick was segregated from the others.

IS LORD "C" TOO RARE FOR COCKTAILS?

LORD "C" is the expert's name for Lord Calvert—one of the rarest of all American whiskies. Is it too rare, too costly to use for cocktails?

Our blenders believe that it is an open question. They point out that Lord "C" is a unique blend of twenty-nine selected classics—ryes, bourbons, and golden grain neutral spirits—from the world's largest whiskey library. If every man in America were rationed to one shot of Lord Calvert a year, there still wouldn't be enough to go around.

Are you then to reserve your Lord "C" for highballs and on-the-rocks? Perhaps. But it does make the best old-fashioned!

U.S. Reorganizing Atom Plane Quest

By JOHN W. FINNEY

WASHINGTON—The Defense department is making a major reshuffle in the command—and perhaps the organization—of the costly and thus far unsuccessful project to build a nuclear-powered airplane.

Maj. Gen. Donald J. Keirn, who for the past seven years has directed the on-again-off-again project, will retire from military service on Aug. 31. He will be replaced, at least in his air force capacity, by Irving L. Branch, a 46-year-old Air Force officer who was just recently promoted to brigadier general.

The change in command throws a new complication into the much criticized project, which congressional critics complain has been plagued by "drift and indecision" and which once again is without a clear-cut objective of getting a nuclear plane in the air.

Over the objections of Gen. Keirn and the Atomic Energy Commission, the Defense Department recently vetoed plans to build two prototype atomic airplanes and instead ordered further research on the reactor power plant.

Gen. Keirn described his retirement as "completely voluntary" and not the result of any pressure from or disagreement with his superiors in the defense department. The 54-year-old general said he had long been planning to retire upon completion of 30 years of military service this summer.

Keirn's associates, however, expressed the belief that the Defense Department's ever-changing signals and failure to establish clear goals for the project played a part in his decision to retire. Some of the past frustrations in directing the project were reflected in Keirn's statement to a reporter that he was leaving the project with "regret that I have not been able to get a little firmer program started."

The nuclear plane project has been underway now for 13 years, and over $800,000,000 has been spent on research to develop a nuclear power plant that could power an airplane in flight.

43 To Offer Pro-Union House Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor legislation became further snarled in the House Thursday. There were these developments:

1. Forty-three Democratic members banded together to oppose any but a simple bill favorable to labor unions which they will offer themselves.

2. Democratic Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts told the House that debate on labor controls would start next Tuesday, but this schedule may be upset by the Rules Committee.

McCormack announced the Rules Committee would clear on Monday a bill drafted by a House Labor Committee. But then it developed that the Rules Committee plans to consider other legislation Monday and has not yet scheduled a hearing on the labor bill.

McCormack told reporters, on being advised of this, that the labor bill would be called up as soon as it is cleared by the rules group.

Rep. Clare Hoffman (R-Mich.) raised a question in the House over whether the Rules Committee could send the bill to the floor if it lacked the endorsement of a majority of the Labor Committee. Fewer than half of the 30 Labor Committee members have signed a favorable report on the bill.

Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) held that this is a question for the Rules Committee to decide.

Rockefeller's Nuptial Date Reported Set

OSLO (UPI) — A Norwegian newspaper said Thursday that Steven Rockefeller, 23, son of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, and honey-blonde Norwegian Anne Marie Rasmussen, a former maid in the Rockefeller home, planned to marry in mid-August.

Friends of the couple discounted the report published by the afternoon newspaper Verdens Gang. They said, "Nothing has been decided yet."

The newspaper attributed its report to "the best sources" of Soegne, a town in southern Norway where young Rockefeller and Anne Marie are vacationing.

Missiles for Cruisers Refused by Pentagon

(Copyright 1959 by the New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK—A Navy request for funds to arm several cruisers with Polaris fleet ballistic missiles has been rejected by the Department of Defense.

The funds requested were included in a supplemental appropriation bill for the 1960 fiscal year, which started July 1. The money would have put the Polaris 1,200-mile missile aboard surface ships for the first time.

So far, the Navy program for the Polaris has been limited to the fleet ballistic missile submarines now under construction. The first of these, the George Washington, which will carry 16 missiles, is due for commissioning in December.

The Defense Department rejection of the Navy's request applied to this fiscal year only. It was based upon the fact that Polaris is not yet past the development stage, and that no Polaris missile has yet been fired at full range. The development and test program for the missile is not scheduled for completion until the fall of 1960. In future years, if the Polaris is successful, funds for arming surface ships with it may be approved by the Pentagon.

The Navy took the position that the Polaris tests to date were satisfactory and were progressing according to the contemplated schedule.

British Fight Over Negro Immigration

(Copyright 1959, The New York Times Co.)

LONDON—A meeting of protest over the British Government's policies in central Africa developed into a brawl Thursday night when a group in the audience demonstrated against the immigration of non-whites to Britain.

The shouting and struggling went on for six or seven minutes as stewards grappled with the demonstrators. Steel chairs were thrown, and one man left the hall bleeding from the head. About half of the 20 demonstrators were ejected, and the police took the names of some of them.

About 500 persons attended the meeting at Central Hall in Westminster.

M. L. Benedum, 91, Dies; King of Oil Prospectors

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Oil wildcatter Michael Late Benedum, who said only a fortnight ago that he was not afraid of death, died at his home Thursday in his 91st year.

The famed old king of the oil prospectors earned about $100 million in an unmatched career which extended back almost to the start of the oil industry in America.

Benedum probably discovered more oil than any other man in history. He was born at Bridgeport, W.Va., on July 16, 1869, and began his business life earning $25 a week running a grist mill.

He got into the oil business because he courteously gave his seat on a train to an elderly oil man.

The befriended man gave Benedum a job leasing oil and gas lands.

He later struck out on his own, collecting along the way, the legendary Joe C. Trees as a partner.

The pair wildcatted in West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Ohio and sold their rich finds to big companies for huge profits.

He went broke at least once, branched out into other businesses, returned to oil—began prospecting and wildcating in Illinois, Mexico and South America.

You'll find it easier to get ahead when inflation is off your back

"We're making good money —but why can't we get ahead?"

YOU can't get ahead for the same reason that most families can't get ahead: There's too little left for savings after you pay for living expenses.

And the odd thing is that most of us can actually count more dollars in each paycheck. But they don't buy as much as they used to.

The dollar has fallen victim to inflation—has lost 32¢ in purchasing power just since the end of World War II. What's more, forces that can create more inflation are still building up, still threatening what you earn and what you save.

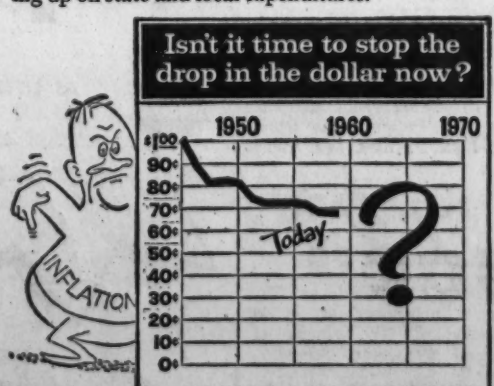

You read about these inflationary forces in the newspapers—this or that group pressuring government for additional services or benefits. If additional tax money is not forthcoming to pay for these extras, we have to pay with more inflation. No denying it—excessive government spending is a primary cause of the inflation that makes it tough for you to get ahead.

HOW YOU CAN HELP STOP INFLATION

1. Write to your senators and congressmen and tell them you favor tightening up on expenditures. Many expenditures can be reduced, postponed or eliminated altogether. Your representatives may believe exactly as you do but if they hear mainly from pressure groups who demand more spending, it is hard for them to hold the line against inflation. That is why you and others need to make it clear that you expect the government to live within its income.

2. Your state and local representatives also may appreciate being reminded that you favor tightening up on state and local expenditures.

A good way to keep yourself fully informed on how your representatives are voting is through your newspaper.

3. Whenever you shop, don't be afraid to be price-conscious. You have a right to receive full value for the money you spend.

4. When you buy wisely, you will find it easier to build a nest egg which will give your family that extra protection you want them to have. And as many of us add to our nest eggs, we will be providing the capital for more jobs and greater opportunity for all.

We all look forward to the prosperous years ahead, but we'll be a lot more sure of them when our economy rests on a stable dollar.

Brought to you in the interest of every American who is concerned with preserving the value of the dollar.

Thor Cone Flies Without Tumble For First Time

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nose cone of a Thor intermediate-range ballistic missile fired from Cape Canaveral last Friday achieved the first stabilized, non-tumbling flight recorded, the Air Force said Thursday.

The nose cone, controlled in flight by heat detecting and horizon viewing gadgets, flew without pitching, yawing or spinning during its trajectory of 316 miles above the earth.

The Air Force issued a series of photographs made automatically by a camera in the nose cone showing clearly the outline of Florida and portions of neighboring states and depicting the curve of the earth. The film was recovered from the Atlantic Ocean.

Khrushchev-Nixon Debate Televised Fairly, U.S. Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Thursday rejected a charge by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev that Americans had broken an agreement for a full and fair U.S. showing of Khrushchev's televised debate with Vice President Nixon.

State Department press officer Joseph W. Reap backed what he said were assurances by American networks that complete and accurate translations of Khrushchev's remarks had been given.

The department arranged for rush shipment to Moscow of transcripts of the 15-minute televised debate so they will be available speech in the Ukraine about U.S. for Nixon if he sees fit to counter the Soviet allegation.

Khrushchev protested in a handling of the debate. The sharp exchange was recorded last Friday when Nixon and the Soviet Premier visited the U.S. National Exhibition in Moscow.

Khrushchev and Nixon agreed on the spot that the recording would be broadcast in both countries, with full translation of the foreigner's language in each case.

Khrushchev, complaining about the translations into English, called the American Broadcasting Co. version "especially inaccurate" and said it had left out "several of my utterances on matters of principle." Khrushchev contended the Soviets were fulfilling the agreement on their side.

Two ABC newsmen with Nixon were barred from the air today four hours before they were to broadcast a report on the trip. Competitors from the other American networks declined to take advantage of the situation, refusing to use broadcast time allotted to them.

Reap said U.S. government Russian-language experts who had heard the broadcasts, carried widely throughout the United States last week and fully substantiate assurances received from the networks that the translations were "complete and accurate."

Capt. Horton Takes Over NAS Today

Capt. John A. Horton Jr., USN, will take command of the Atlanta Naval Air Station at Marietta Friday at 3:30 p.m. in change of command ceremonies.

He will relieve Cmdr. Edward W. Pacek, USNR, who has been the installation's commander since the transfer of Capt. R. E. Stieler two months ago.

Capt. Horton reports to the Marietta base from the Naval Air Station, Adak, Alaska, where he was commanding officer.

A 47-year-old native of Belton, S. C., the new commander led the first night-bombing photographic raid against the North Kurile Islands in World War II.

He is a 1934 graduate of the Naval Academy and was designated a naval aviator in 1937. Cpt. Horton is the son of the former Emma Tate of Elberton and the late John A. Horton. He holds the American Defense Medal, the World War II Victory Medal, the Korean Service Medal and service ribbons from the American Theater and the Asiatic-Pacific Theater.

Capt. Horton and his wife have five children.

Principal Quits After Fine for Shoplifting

A Negro school principal who paid a fine for disorderly conduct, shoplifting submitted her resignation, Fulton County School Supt. Paul D. West said Thursday.

West said the woman submitted her written resignation when he called upon her to confer with him on the matter.

She was identified as Mrs. Earlene Christopher, 42, of 249 Linkwood Rd., NW, principal of Stonewall Elementary School.

She pleaded guilty in Atlanta Municipal Court after being charged with shoplifting $5.84 worth of items from a variety store on Broad street. Judge James E. Webb fined her $53.

He'll Blow To the End, Satch Says

HIGHLAND PARK, Ill. (UPI)—Louie Armstrong said Thursday he's going to keep blowing his horn "until I can't blow no mo'."

The iron man of jazz, who only a few weeks ago was laid up with a bad case of pneumonia in Italy, was sitting in a two-by-four dressing room backstage at the Tent-house (summer) Theater just outside Chicago.

Satchmo was making his first U.S. appearance with his five-man "concert group" since he returned from a six-month tour of Europe. His beaming face could have matched the glow of his golden horn.

"Listen, pops," he told an interviewer. "I didn't have nothing but a little cold over in Europe."

"Pneumonia! Haah! Where I come from, pops, we weren't up on stuff like that. We just called it a cold."

Doc Pugh, Louie's valet, pushed through a throng of well-wishers outside the dressing room and plunked a stack of handkerchiefs in front of Louie. (Pugh said his boss uses 50 every performance.)

Louie tied one around his neck, like a bib, and knotted another over his head. Then he began smearing his lips with salve. His upper lip looks like a boxer's cauliflower ear.

"You know, pops," he said to the reporter, "I ain't going to retire like some of them prize fighters do and then try to make a comeback. No musician can get away from his horn and still blow the same."

DeKalb Schools Opening Aug. 31

DeKalb County school children have one month before dusting off school satchels and pencil boxes, polishing shoes and getting ready. School starts Aug. 31.

Enrollment, expected to soar above 44,000 during the coming year, will be held Aug. 25 and 26, with elementary children registering the first day and high school students both days. School buses will not run until school opens.

Children who are 6 when the term opens, or who will be 6 between Aug. 31 and Jan. 1, 1960,

AF Postpones Satellite Firing

VANDENBERG A.F.B., Calif. (UPI)—Launching of a Discoverer V satellite was called off for the third straight day Thursday after the countdown reached zero.

The Air Force issued no immediate statement as to what happened.

However, the main stage apparently did not fire in the late afternoon attempt to blast the "moon" into a polar orbit.

Finch Jailed Without Bail; Death Penalty to Be Asked

WEST COVINA, Calif. (AP)—A wealthy surgeon was ordered jailed without bail Thursday to await trial on charge of murdering his wife.

The prosecutor says he'll ask the death penalty for crew-cut, 41-year-old Dr. Bernard Finch. But he won't seek death for the doctor's pretty girl friend, Carol Tregoff, 22.

Dr. Finch's dramatic four-day preliminary hearing ended Thursday morning when Municipal Judge Albert H. Miller decided there is ample evidence to justify trial and deny bail.

The socially prominent doctor is charged with slaying his wife, Barbara, 33, during an argument at his wife's estate over her plans for divorce. She was shot in the back the night of July 18.

The prosecution contends he and Miss Tregoff went to the home with intent to murder Mrs. Finch, waylaid her when she returned from an engagement, and Finch shot her when a plan to drug her and drive her over a cliff went awry.

The defense contends Mrs. Finch pulled a gun when the others walked up to her and that it went off after she struggled with the doctor.

Judge Miller said he can't believe Finch and Miss Tregoff went to the Finch home merely to discuss a divorce.

He commented in scathing tones: "Now someone, please, without reflection on the intelligence of the court, tell me how anyone would expect the terms of a divorce settlement to be discussed by a woman when she is first accosted by her estranged husband and the husband's female companion in the middle of the night."

"The whole trouble was that this charming young lady (nodding toward Mrs. Finch's maid) turned up and spoiled the whole thing."

Union Appeals to U.S., Assails Steel Profits

NEW YORK (UPI)—Steel union President David J. McDonald sent a blistering report on the steel strike to Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell Thursday and charged that the industry was "looking for an excuse to get a price increase."

In the six-page statement to Mitchell, McDonald pointed out U.S. Steel Corporation's record earnings of $254,948,496 during the first half of this year and said the companies' stand against a wage increase at this time "can be refuted by their own reports."

McDonald also said at a news conference that in view of the size and complexity of the industry and the idling of 500,000 workers, he did not see how the government could avoid becoming involved in the strike dispute.

"We have always welcomed the involvement of the government," he said.

The union chief attacked the "hold-the-line" statement on steel prices made Tuesday by Roger M. Blough, chairman of the board of "Big Steel."

In it, Blough pledged that steel prices would not be raised if a steel settlement was "voluntary," but made no commitment if the settlement was directed by some government authority.

"Mr. Blough is looking for some other excuse to get a price increase," McDonald declared.

In the statement, McDonald submitted to Mitchell, he said the U.S. Steel report served "to demolish all of the claims made of inadequate progress by the steel corporations."

Ike Chooses Murphy for Herter Aide

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert D. Murphy, whose 42 years of diplomacy have hit dramatic high spots was named Thursday to be the No. 3 man in the State Department.

President Eisenhower nominated him to be undersecretary of state for political affairs, dealing with the conduct of relations with other governments.

Thus only Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and Undersecretary Douglas Dillon will outrank Murphy.

In World War II days, when Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was commander in chief of Allied forces in Europe, Murphy was the general's adviser on political affairs.

U.S. Communist Party Held Subversive Again

By WILLIAM M. BLAIR

(Copyright 1959 by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—The U.S. Court of Appeals held Thursday for the second time that the Communist Party must register with the government as a subversive organization dominated by Soviet Russia.

In a two-to-one decision, the court asserted that the "preponderance of all evidence supports" the Subversive Activities Control Board, which first directed the party to register in 1953.

Joseph Forer, Washington attorney representing the party, said the decision would be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court. He has 90 days in which to file for a review by the high court.

Chief Judge E. Barrett Prettyman wrote the appeals court decision. He was joined by Judge John A. Danaher. They had upheld the Subversive Activities Control Act of 1950 in the first court test of its constitutionality on Dec. 23, 1954.

Judge David L. Bazelon dissented. He also had dissented in the original 1954 opinion. Judge Bazelon called for the case to be sent back to the control board for another round of hearings.

The control law imposes rigid controls on the Communist Party of the United States of America. It requires full disclosure of income and expenditures and the names and addresses of party members.

EIGHTEEN-ONE HUNDREDTHS OF A SECOND—Fast shooting Dick Miles, 662 Peeples St., SW, shows how to fast draw. In the first photo, he held a half-dollar (arrow) in his hand and prepares to shoot a balloon held in the teeth of Wiley Perry. In the second, Miles has dropped the 50-cent piece (arrow) and drawn—he squints his eyes, concentrating on the target. In photo number 3, Miles bursts the balloon. Shielding Perry's face is a piece of cardboard to keep the flying powder from burning him. Miles' weapon is a 38-40 1890 model Colt revolver. For this stunt, Miles uses 120 grains of black powder and a 1/2-inch wax load as a bullet. Safety-minded Miles, a structural engineer for a construction firm, urges all amateur shooters to use fake bullets in lieu of real ammunition.

Undecided on Running Again, Talmadge Says

Georgia's Sen. Talmadge told Alpharetta citizens Thursday night he had made no decision on seeking reelection as governor or as U.S. senator.

The Georgia Congressman spoke to an Alpharetta town meeting by a direct-dialed long-distance call provided by Southern Bell Telephone Co.

Talmadge said he probably would not make up his mind on seeking reelection until 1962, but added that he probably would seek his U.S. Senate seat again.

Commenting on Rep. Phillip Landrum's proposed labor bill, which has been endorsed by President Eisenhower, Talmadge said he felt major opposition to the bill would come from congressmen in the heavily populated cities—New York, Chicago, Detroit and Los Angeles, among others—who were "more amenable" to the "so-called labor leaders."

He said that it was too early to tell what the outcome of Landrum's bill would be, but said he felt that Congress would pass a management-labor bill this session which would be "a long step forward," in protection of union members.

Asked how he felt about Nixon's trip to the Soviet Union, Talmadge said he felt Nixon has been "an able and efficient representative of our government in very trying circumstance" and had handled himself very well, particularly in the widely publicized debate at the U.S. exhibition in Moscow.

Talmadge spoke to Alpharetta Mayor William E. Spence, who placed the direct-distance dialing call to Washington as a demonstration of the new system, which will be installed in Atlanta and about 24 other communities in October, 1960. Alpharetta will switch to Greenleaf-5 exchange next Sunday at 2 a.m. in preparation for DDD hook-up.

Subcommittees were appointed, a spokesman said, which will begin work immediately on initial planning for the celebration.

Member of the "One Million" committee were named by the Metropolitan Council of Chambers of Commerce.

The metropolitan population on July 1 was placed at 992,000 by the Metropolitan Planning Commission. Planners estimated the population would increase at the rate of one person every 18 minutes, 9.45 seconds.

At that rate, Metropolitan Atlanta is expected to skip past the million-people mark on Oct. 10—the date tentatively set for the celebration.

Both cases are scheduled for trial during the first week of October in the Albany division of the court.

Dykes and Riden were accused by the grand jury of devising a "check kiting scheme" to defraud the State Bank of Cochran and the Bank of Albany by means of false and fraudulent pretenses.

Dykes Posts $2,000 Bond in U.S. Mail Case

MACON (UP)—Former State Sen. James M. Dykes of Cochran posted a $2,000 bond in U. S. District Court here Thursday on a 22-count mail fraud indictment brought against him Wednesday by a federal grand jury.

Making bond at the same time was Victor B. Riden, an employee of Dykes' Acme Construction Co., who was indicted along with the road contractor.

Both cases are scheduled for trial during the first week of October in the Albany division of the court.

Dykes and Riden were accused by the grand jury of devising a "check kiting scheme" to defraud the State Bank of Cochran and the Bank of Albany by means of false and fraudulent pretenses.

ARENA SCORES 'WITH FEELING'

A Fine Comedy Cast Romps in 'Once More'

By JIM PEAGLER

The outstanding comedy success, "Once More With Feeling," which played on Broadway this season, was performed Thursday night at the Arena Playhouse. Eighty persons witnessed one of the best performances

Broadway actors Adrienne Moore and Gregg Long head a fine cast in this story of a talented but egomaniacal conductor named Fabian who refuses to patronize the bourgeois supporters of his art.

Miss Moore, after starting out slowly, turned in an inspired and vibrant performance as the much-maligned wife of the conductor and the only person who can control him. Soothing the wounded pride of musicians who have had their instruments broken over their heads and their shirts torn off their backs, and interrupting the maestro's attempts to tell off his plebeian benefactors are tasks which she carries off adroitly.

Gregg Long suited the part of the maestro in appearance and temperament to perfection and played his part with understanding and enthusiasm.

The real stars of the evening, however, were the supporting players: Beryl Goldberg as the nervewrecked agent for the conductor; William Severs as the chairman of the symphony board who inherited his position with a pickle factory; and Archie Smith in the dual role of two mistreated brother musicians from whom the maestro is spared a law suit by the charm of his wife, Miss Moore.

Mr. Wilbur, the owner of the pickle factory, has a mother who is a great admirer of the conductor's wife. Mr. Wilbur is willing to underwrite the symphony's deficit if Fabian will conduct his mother's favorite piece, "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

It would be a betrayal to explain who is the eventual victim in this battle of the sexes and the classes, but the audiences will be well rewarded with side-splitting laughter as well as intelligent stagemanship.

The play will be repeated nightly through Sunday at 8:30, with Saturday and Sunday matinees at 2:30 p.m.

Davis Asks Referees for News Complaints

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Georgia congressman told the House Thursday there should be some kind of "arbitrator" to whom people in the news could register complaints about what appears, or doesn't appear, in newspapers.

The proposal was made by Rep. James C. Davis (D-Ga.) as several House members criticized the press for not reporting on their speeches.

They charged correspondents were deliberately ignoring the floor remarks of congressmen opposed to free trade policies.

Youth Is Indicted on 5 Counts In Columbus Art Museum Blaze

Richard V. Smith, 18-year-old youth whom police say has admitted burning valuable paintings at Columbus Museum of Arts and Crafts July 18, Thursday was indicted on five separate counts by a Muscogee County grand jury at Columbus.

The youth was indicted on charges of arson in the second and third degree, burglary and two counts of malicious mischief.

The malicious mischief charges were made in connection with the paintings of swastikas on the rear door of two Columbus Jewish synagogues this month. Police said Smith has also admitted these acts of vandalism.

The third degree arson charge, police added, resulted from the burning of personal property, 11 paintings valued at a total of $5,150. The most valuable painting listed in the indictment was an $1,800 still life by Lamar Dodd, famous Georgia artist who now heads the University of Georgia Art department.

The second degree arson charge resulted from the burning of a building other than a dwelling, and the burglary charge resulted from breaking and entering the museum, police said.

Griffin Traffic Death
The first traffic death within Griffin's city limits in more than five years was recorded Thursday with the death of a 13-year-old boy.

George Underwood died more than a month after he was knocked from his bicycle by a car near the downtown area. No charges were filed against the driver.

The last traffic fatality in Griffin was in February, 1954.

50,000-Acre Lease

St. Regis Paper Co. has leased nearly 50,000 acres in seven counties from the Ingram-LeGrand Lumber Co., a contract filed in Lumpkin showed Thursday.

The $750,000 deal also involved sale of Ingram-LeGrand's lumber mill and lumber supplies in Lumpkin. The mill has been sold since the contract was signed.

The rental on 48,246 acres in Stewart, Monroe, Chattahoochee, Jasper, Butts, Lamar and Putnam counties was based on the U.S. Department of Labor's wholesale price index. The first year rental was set at $12,061, an average of 25 cents per acre.

Sheriff Bound Over
Walker County Sheriff John W. Brock has been bound over to the county grand jury on charges growing out of a Tuesday raid which Brock said was in search of illegal liquor.

Coroner Hill Pope said he served warrants on Brock charging housebreaking and striking a minor. The sheriff said he had a search warrant.

Justice of the Peace Paul W. Campbell set bond at $100 and Brock made it immediately. The grand jury meets next Aug. 17.

Admits Slaying

A Negro broke down Wednesday after a lie detector test and admitted slaying and robbing his 81-year-old former employer in Meriwether County, Sheriff Howard Norris said.

Norris said Herring Davis, 40, was arrested the day of the July 23 rifle slaying of grist mill operator G. Frank Hall Sr.

Davis has been charged with first-degree murder and will waive preliminary hearing, the sheriff said.

$180,000 Fee Rise For Utilities Asked

The Senate Government Operations Committee Thursday recommended drastic revision in the system of assessing the state's public utilities for operational expenses of the Public Service Commission.

It recommended a law which would require the utilities to pay in a total of $250,000, instead of the $70,000 which they now pay in aggregate for the PSC's operation.

Under the present law — enacted in 1922 — almost 100 utility companies pay in less than $50 a year, the committee said. Many companies pay in from $1 to $10 annually. One company pays as little as 75 cents, and two companies, 82 cents a year.

After a study of the PSC, the committee said the work load of the state's regulatory agency has increased tremendously over the years with the growth of the utilities. But the PSC's present staff numbers two less than it did 20 years ago, the committee found.

Sen. Carl Sanders of Augusta, a member of the committee, explained that the law provides that the PSC be financed by fees paid by the power, telephone and gas companies, truck, rail and bus lines and other firms which are regulated by the commission.

The 1922 law put the utilities' share of the contribution at $70,000. Truck and bus lines, assessed in a similar manner, are paying in about $215,000 a year. The committee recommended that there be no change at present in the total assessment of the truck and bus lines.

In the 1956 appropriations act — the last one passed by the General Assembly — the legislature earmarked $300,000 for annual operation of the PSC. The utilities' contribution of $70,000, plus the $215,000 from truck and bus lines, leaves $15,000 a year that must come from the general treasury of the state.

The committee's proposed legislation would increase the utilities' assessment to $250,000, thereby bringing the PSC's annual budget up from $300,000 to $430,000, including the $15,000 from the general treasury.

The committee emphasized that the increase in operating expenses for the commission would not involve an increase in taxes.

Under the present arrangement, a few of the larger utilities are assessed the major portion of the $70,000 total. Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., for example, is assessed $18,006. Georgia Power Co. pays in $22,635.

The assessments are based on current valuations of taxable property.

Sen. Sanders said the larger utilities—which would continue to pay the heavier part of the assessment—have indicated they would not object to the increase.

The legislative proposal would also establish a $100 a year minimum assessment for all utilities, regardless of property valuation.

In its report to the General Assembly, the governor and presiding officers of both houses, the committee said the number of utilities in the state is 25 times the number since 1920.

Financial aid to the PSC is essential if it "is to continue to give the good service to the people that it has been rendering in the past," the committee said.

Atlantan, 22, Indicted in 2 Rape Cases

A 22-year-old Atlantan has been indicted on two charges of rape.

The Fulton Grand Jury indicted Lowell Sam Henley of 877 Edgewood Ave., SE, alias Johnny Williams, in connection with assaults reported July 18 and on July 16, 1958.

In both instances, the women involved knew the defendant as Johnny Williams, police said.

In the first case, a 16-year-old Hapeville girl took out a warrant against Henley, charging that he and two more youths assaulted her in a car parked on Mt. Zion Rd. off Stewart Ave., SW. Since the warrant was issued against "Williams," he could not be located.

Police said that when Henley was arrested in connection with a rape charge made by a 19-year-old student nurse, they noted his identification fit that in the earlier case. They brought in the victim, who identified him, police said.

Police Sgt. Hulsey Promoted to Lieutenant

Atlanta Police Sgt. Ralph E. Hulsey has been promoted to lieutenant and Patrolman C. L. Herring has been promoted to sergeant.

The promotions were announced Thursday by Police Chief Herbert Jenkins in a special order effective Aug. 3.

Hulsey was assigned to day watch uniform division and Herring was assigned to the day watch and placed in charge of the police car garage.

Lt. A. L. Posey, formerly in charge of the garage, was relieved of the duty and assigned to the evening uniform division.

Appraisals For Viaduct Are Readied

Land agent Harry Andrews told the Aldermanic board's public works committee Thursday he expects early next week to get real estate board appraisals on 19 of the 43 parcels of property and easements needed for construction of the $3.5 million Techwood viaduct.

Andrews said a special meeting of the review board of the Atlanta Real Estate Board has been set for Friday at which final figures will be studied. He added as soon as the appraisals are available attaches of his office will begin negotiations to obtain the needed right-of-way.

The 19 appraisals being made by the real estate board are private-owned stretches. The remaining 24 other tracts and easements are owned by utilities and will be negotiated direct.

Aldermen last week authorized condemnation against the Southern Railway System and the Atlanta Terminal Co. to facilitate and speed up acquisition of needed properties they control.

City Construction Chief Ray Nixon says all other utilities have indicated they will go along with any reasonable plans, but Southern officials have demanded concessions city officials say would hike cost of the project more than $750,000.

The completed project will extend some 3,400 feet from Marietta street across the downtown railway chasm to Nelson street, providing a new traffic artery west of and paralleling the Spring street viaduct.

NOT A RICH STRIKE—BUT IT'S GOLD
Charlie Vagabond Pans on the Chattahoochee

State's Gold Keeps Prospector at It

By HUNTER JAMES
Constitution Staff Writer

HELEN—Charlie Vagabond is the last of the gold prospectors in these north Georgia hills.

He hasn't gotten rich exactly—but he has found enough gold to keep him going.

He lives in a log cabin that looks down on the Chattahoochee River. The Chattahoochee isn't much of a river along here, but there are trees along either bank, and, on a summer evening, it is mighty peaceful.

A lean, slightly nervous man with a hawk face, Charlie Vagabond came to Helen for the first time in the spring of 1957. He liked the town and he liked to stop on the street and chat with the people.

Most folks around Helen liked him and Charlie figured he had found himself a home at last.

Charlie Vagabond, before he got into the prospecting game, had been "everywhere" and tried his hand at a little of everything—photography, nuclear physics, politics... he even had a go at uranium prospecting when he first came to Helen.

As a young man he made his living as a musician. "Used to be a band leader. Got tired of it."

Later on, he operated a gift shop at the Court of the Two Sisters in New Orleans.

He came originally from New Orleans and still spends a good bit of time there. As a matter of fact, having run into a dry lode, he went back to New Orleans last December. He was there for more than six months, running a photographic shop for one of the night clubs.

But Charlie couldn't stay long from the hills. "After all, I'm the only active prospector left in north Georgia."

Through most of the afternoon of his arrival the townspeople were dropping by to welcome their old friend back to Helen.

At 3 o'clock the mayor of Helen and some other folks found Charlie Vagabond standing on the river bank. It was raining, but that didn't matter to Charlie.

Charles Maloof, the mayor, was an old friend of the prospector's. They shook hands vigorously. Then Charlie Vagabond shook hands with the other folks and invited them into the cabin.

But something had caught the mayor's eye... a funny-looking contraption propped against an old picnic table by the river. It appeared to be some kind of giant lens.

"That's just what it is," Charlie Vagabond said. "I invented that. Filed the patent a long time ago. Sold the rights to the military. Don't know what they are doing with it. I think they can use it, if they want to, to pick enemy missiles out of the sky."

Charlie Vagabond had become suddenly interested in his invention—it was something he had left over from his nuclear physics days.

"It concentrates heat," he said. "Enough heat to explode your eyeballs in your sockets when you're five miles back in a mining tunnel."

To everyone but the mayor, it was somewhat surprising to find out that Charlie Vagabond was also an inventor. But the longer you stay around Charlie the more you find out about him.

Charlie Vagabond led the way up to his cabin—a pine-paneled, three-room dwelling with an air conditioning unit in one window that has never been turned on. "We sleep under covers up here," he said.

His real interest is gold. And buried treasure. Charlie said the Spaniards—De Soto and his conquistadors—left buried treasure

State Patrol Asks More Personnel

Trotter Cites Rise In Traffic Deaths

Georgia Public Safety Department Director Col. William P. Trotter said Thursday that an increase in Highway Patrol personnel is needed to clamp down on traffic offenders. "I believe there are a thousand traffic violators for every one arrested," Trotter said. "Even though each state trooper travels from 250 to 350 miles daily, it is still difficult for only 400 men to cover the state properly." The troopers work from 10 to 12 hours a day, Trotter said.

By Thursday, 534 traffic deaths had been recorded in Georgia, an increase of 31 over last year. An increase in the number of miles traveled and vehicles and people on the roads is reflected in the higher accident rate, Trotter pointed out.

Trotter urged each driver to examine his own driving record, habits, actions and attitudes. According to files in the department dating back to 1937, most drivers convicted of traffic violations have previous records.

Trotter also called for greater cooperation between enforcement agencies and courts. Stricter sentences are now given for violations, including driver license suspensions to first offenders in some cases, Trotter said.

"One of 10 families will be affected by some kind of traffic accident within the year," he said.

Christians Are Sinners All the Same

QUESTION: I have been a Christian for years but in my heart I know I am still a sinner. This makes me miserable. —R. W.

ANSWER: It is true you are still a sinner. But you are a redeemed sinner, and because of that, you can and should rejoice.

This does not mean that you should be one with less vigilance against the temptations which surround you and to which all of us are subject. But it does mean you should rejoice in the fact that Christ is your Savior and it should strengthen you in your desire to please and serve Him.

As Christians grow in grace sin becomes more and more obvious, and we hate it more and more. At the same time we should love our Savior more because of the deliverance which is ours.

A Christian may fall into sin but he is sorry for it and confesses it and turns to Christ for forgiveness. But we should also remember that Christ can and will give us the victory over sin.

5 Murder Trials On Next Week's Fulton Calendar

Five murder cases and a number of other crimes carrying possible death penalties are on a calendar of criminal cases scheduled for trial next week in Fulton Superior Court.

The cases are to be tried in keeping with the court's regular practice of holding one week of court to try "jail cases" during its summer recess to clear the backlog of prisoners that builds up during the recess.

Judges Luther Alverson and Claude D. Shaw will preside over the trials.

Three murder cases and one involuntary manslaughter case are among the trials Judge Shaw will handle. There are two murder cases and one manslaughter among those on Judge Alverson's calendar. Most of the murder cases involve Negro victims and defendants.

Goodwin Will Head U.N. Day Fete Here

George Goodwin, vice president of the First National Bank, will head Atlanta's U.N. Day observance on Oct. 24. He was appointed by Mayor Hartsfield.

Mrs. William Green is president of the U.N. Council of Atlanta, a sponsor of the observance.

Longer Skirts Shown in Paris

By PATRICIA PETERSON
(Copyright 1959 by the New York Times Co.)

PARIS—All the Paris fall and winter fashion collections—Chanel, Heim and Griffe—agree on the soft silhouette and the longer skirt.

Indestructible Chanel, who has insisted on ease for clothes for the past 40 years, was applauded again today. Her Coromandel screened salon was jammed with an audience eager to see more of what many have been seeing and loving for years.

At times the salon seemed like a gay party rather than a press opening. Studded between the press were chic young women, chattering frivolously to their friends and admirers, and Audrey Hepburn, dressed in a slick white Givenchy dress, was busy scribbling down all her favorite styles along with the rest of the reporters.

As is to be expected, Chanel's fashions were not noticeably changed, but still just as desirable. However, there were some fresh details.

EFFORTLESS SUITS

Chanel's effortless suits were more shaped over the bosom, and jackets dipped slightly at the back. Most jackets nudged the hipbone, but a few ended just at the waist, and bright silk shirts were favored over the usual jersey blouses. Young-looking tam-o-shanter berets worn with suits were set far back on the head.

Two loosely fitted coats with full skirts were shown and rather conspicuous sleeves curved out from waisted dresses.

Her tunic dresses, a real triumph of cutting out the unessential, were marvelous. Fluid and smooth, they flowed over the body like honey from a jar. Just below the knee, they were slit a good foot on either side, revealing a matching slim skirt.

Traditional Chanel trademarks were sprinkled through the collection. There were lots of pockets, buttons and braid. Gardenias were clipped in the hair, or on suit lapels. There were beribboned and dear little dance dresses with low waists and ankle-length flouncing skirts.

Jaques Heim seems to get his cue from Chanel. His collection was one of ease and softness. Tailored suit jackets, often collared in fluffy fur, were so relaxed that they slid down to the hips as casually as a sweater. Fluid dresses were ghosts of a chemise past.

HEIM'S COLLECTION

Heim's evening collection, so popular with his private customers, showed the popular ankle-length skirt seen all over Paris as well as tiny-bodied full-skirted dance dresses. Heim's version of the ankle-length dress was slim draped and slashed up to the knee in front. Some floor-length ball gowns surprisingly had a modified front slit, too.

Jean Desses was another couturier who for the most part avoided wallpaper-tight clothes this season. His evening clothes, always his best efforts, had his renowned draped floor-length gowns, and a trunk full of looped-up and scooped-up ankle-length dresses.

Everyone is waiting with the usual excitement to see which way Dior will turn. His alternatives are the shapely romantic silhouette of Ricci or the current eisted and fluid look with a suspicion of Poiret. Perhaps he will surprise us with something completely new.

ITALIAN STUNNER—Eleanora Garnett, Rome designer, stunned the fashion world with luxurious knee-length slacks for evening wear with this exciting hostess outfit. Looking very much like a gala dress, it actually is a shimmering hostess gown in gold brocade with saravar pants and black chiffon overskirt. Press reports agree that even conservative Roman hostesses bearing the great titled names of Italy as well as the younger and more fashion-minded of them nodded approval of this imaginative treatment of the at-home outfit.

BRIGHT BY NIGHT—Italian collection predicts that evening wear is bright and luminous with many whites and pinks. Even black for after dark becomes brilliant jet. Satins, failles, and grosgrains hum and rustle with a new meaning and there are no strapless evening gowns in Garnett's collection since she does not think there is anything beautiful in an uncovered armpit, preferring to focus on the more provocative breastline. Typical is the shell pink satin draped ball gown with large rounded shoulder sleeves—slim as a Roman column with top width.

Atlanta Secretaries 'Thumb Down' Bosses Who Are the Wolf Type

By YOLANDE GWIN
Are bosses wolves?

Those who know them best—their secretaries—have answered the question and the majority say "NO!"

But those who admit that they work for men in wolves' clothing, must remain anonymous for obvious reasons.

"The first day I went to work, my boss called me in his office for what I thought would be dictation," said one young secretary. "Well, that turned out to be not only my first day but my last day at work. He told me quite frankly that he wanted a secretary companion and that he would expect me to be on hand any time he wanted to go out for dinner, dancing or a show. When I asked him why he didn't take his wife, he told me she had things to do at home with the children and was not always available. Then he added that 'when I decide I want to go out I don't want to have to wait on my wife to make all her plans and fuss and fume about what to wear or whether her hair is fixed.' I have often wondered how he is getting along now. I have another job with a fine man now and have none of that foolishness."

Another secretary said that her proposition came from her would-be boss during the interview for the job.

"He made no bones about it," she said. "It certainly is an annoying thing."

SMALL NUMBER

A very small number of women secretaries interviewed said that they have been chased around the desk by their employer.

"He was real old, in his late 60s," she said. "Some of the men die hard. This man had been quite a gay blade in his youth and I think he thought he was still young and attractive—not that that would give him the right to do the desk chasing."

Some of the office wolves are sly like the foxes. They start off being very polite, courteous and businesslike to the new secretary, according to one young woman.

"They act aloof, then they sorta bend a little and become more talkative and act friendly," she said. "It's a day by day change and then before you know it they call you by your first name when you are taking dictation. Then he asks you to go out for coffee. Lunch is next and then after you work late he offers to drive you home. He thinks by then he has you trapped and I know whereof I speak. He appears as just what he is, a man in wolf's clothing and a perfect mess too!"

REFUSED KISS

Another secretary said that her boss was quite put out when she refused to let him kiss her at the end of the working day.

"Don't be a priss is what he told me," she said. "When I told him he wasn't acting like a gentleman, he merely laughed and had the nerve to tell me he thought I expected him to kiss me!"

The "we-will-work-late-have-a-bite-to-eat-and-then-I'll-drive-you-home" routine is one of the most popular of the wolf wiles.

"When the boss starts this, you can just bet he's the wolf type," confessed another girl. "The only thing to do, is work late, say you don't eat dinner due to dieting and that your boy friend is going to pick you up. If this excuse doesn't work, think up another one. If the suggestions continue, it's either a flat refusal to work overtime or leave and get another job."

A woman interviewed said that since jobs are rather scarce a secretary has to be either a slick politician to keep the secretary-boss relationship one of cool efficiency; be already married or take your own chances when you answer the wolf whistle.

English Blazer Is Back Again

After several seasons of matched jackets and skirts that looked like suits, the separate jacket that may be worn with practically anything or everything is back in fashion, a wonderful "cover" for the shirt-and-skirt look, of course.

Smartest of the jackets is the English blazer, literally translated from those young Englishmen—all Englishmen we might add—have been wearing almost as a uniform the past three years.

Annie Lou Hardy Annual House Party at Lakemont Set by 25-Year-Old Bridge Club

Members of a 25-year-old bridge club, who gather every year at Mrs. Frank Stevens' summer home at Lakemont, are off on Sunday for this annual house party.

In addition to Mrs. Stevens, the group includes Mrs. A. Q. Smith, Mrs. Varney Ward, Mrs. Rogers Toy, Mrs. C. T. Goree, Mrs. Hayden Jones, Mrs. William Herring, Mrs. Ernest Osborne, Mrs. Joe Thompson and Mrs. Roy C. Morris.

"There is always a card game in progress from the minute we arrive," said Mrs. Smith who is undecided about going because of her beloved boxer that had to be hospitalized for injuries received in a fight. "Of course we swim and row, and some of the crowd even loves to fish. But we always stop for the cocktail hour, and then resume our card games, mostly Bolivia, after dinner. Sometimes we play nearly all night."

MR. AND MRS. EVANS SHUFF are back at their Club drive residence after two months in Europe. They sailed on the Oslo Fjord for a North Cape cruise before touring the continent, and returned on the Mauretania.

LAURA SMITH has issued invitations for a luncheon on Thursday at the Woodhaven road home of her parents, the Edward D. Smiths. Honor guests will be a quartet of popular brides-elect of the season, Jane Sulzer, Carol Gregory, Susan Hart and Rosalyn Kempton.

MRS. BOLLING JONES is a patient at Emory Hospital where she is recuperating from a fall suffered at her W. Paces Ferry road home.

THE RALPH FREDERICKS and the Joe Hamiltons left yesterday for Sea Pines, Hilton Head Island, where they are guests at Hilton Head Inn for a long weekend. They will return on Monday.

MARION GAINES has as her guest this week at the King road home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Gaines, her Hollins classmate, Joan Krebs, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Anton Krebs of Montclair, N.J.

Margaret Allen is also Marion's guest while her parents, the Scott Allens, are at Myrtle Beach, and the trio is busy attending current parties for summer brides-elect. They spent the first part of the week at Lake Lanier where the Gaines family maintains a home.

Marion and Joan will resume their studies as juniors at Hollins in the fall.

PATSY HALL, teenage daughter of the Stanley Halls of Miami, flew to Atlanta on Tuesday for a two-week visit to her grandmother, Mrs. Evans Hall Sr., on Middlesex avenue. Today Patsy will be central figure at a swimming party and picnic to be given by her aunt, Miss Caroline Hall, at Lake Spivey.

THE THIRD DAUGHTER, born July 28 to the Forest Fowlers Jr. at Georgia Baptist Hospital, has been named Margaret McCormick. Mrs. Fowler is the former Barbara Mann, daughter of the Thomas P. Manns of Marietta. The baby's paternal grandparents are the Forest Fowlers Sr. of Atlanta.

BARBARA DeCOUDRES of Ormond Beach, Fla., and her cousin, Randie DeCoudres of Valdosta, are expected today for a 10-day visit to Barbara's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Graham Williams of Peachtree road.

Mrs. Williams has invited a group of Barbara's friends for a soft drink party tomorrow morning. Several other informal affairs have been planned for the visitors.

MRS. WILLIAM M. DUNN, who is spending the summer in Europe, is now at the Bellevue Palace Hotel in Berne, Switzerland, after a tour of Italy.

Mrs. O'Brien To Be Installed As Commander

Mrs. Elizabeth O'Brien will be installed as commander of Georgia's first all-woman post, No. 224, American Legion, on Thursday, July 30, at Post No. 51 in East Point.

Miss Marilyn Miller Is Wed To Mr. Emmons

Major General Troup Miller Jr., U.S. Air Force, and Mrs. Miller of Tullahoma, Tenn., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Marilyn Troup Miller, to James Everette Emmons III, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Emmons Jr. of Tullahoma.

The couple was married on Sunday by the Rev. William D. Inghram, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Tullahoma.

The bride, who is the granddaughter of Mrs. Thomas D. Meador and the late Mr. Meador, Mrs. Troup Miller and the late Gen. Miller, U.S. Army, of Atlanta, was born in San Antonio, Tex. She attended the University of Tennessee, where she was a member of the Chi Omega sorority.

Mrs. Emmons made her debut at the fashionable Queen Charlotte's Ball in London, England, in 1955, and was presented at the Cotton Ball in Chattanooga in 1957.

Following his graduation from Tullahoma High School, Mr. Emmons entered Vanderbilt University, where he was a member of Sigma Chi fraternity and from where he was graduated in 1958 with a B.A. degree. A second lieutenant in the U.S. Army reserve, he received Army training at Ft. Benning and at Ft. Knox.

The bridegroom is the grandson of J. E. Emmons Sr. and Bad Boy Attracts Girl, 14

By DOROTHY RICKER

Dear Mrs. Ricker:

I am just 14. Last May I met a boy and liked him very much, but I really don't know why. He is one of the worst boys I have ever known. I was not allowed to date then and I am not allowed to date now, but we sneaked off to the movies a couple of times and even went down in the woods together.

After a while my mother caught up with us and I was forbidden to see him ever again. I was heartbroken and still find myself thinking about him all the time. I'm quite sure that I'm too young to be in love, but I'd like to know why I can't get him off my mind. Can you help me?

You can forget this boy—if you really want to do it. Judging by your letter there is nothing very pleasant to remember about him. So instead of being heartbroken because Mom has forbidden you to see "one of the worst boys" you have ever known, I suggest you spend more time being concerned about the "very bad reputation" you have acquired.

At 14, you are too young to be truly in love, but you are not too young to know right from wrong. Look at this situation sensibly. Here you are, saddled with a poor reputation before you even start to date. If you don't change, what sort of a girl will you be by the time you are 16?

You see, one of the few things we can control is the way we behave. If you continue to choose sub-standard people for company your reputation will get worse and you will be rejected by worthwhile, decent people. If you want to be known as a nice girl, you must straighten up and "fly right." The choice is yours and I sincerely hope you make the right one.

Dear Mrs. Ricker:

I am a regular reader of your column so I decided to ask your opinion about something. I am 15, my boy friend is 18. His sister is my best friend and I am invited to spend weekends at their parents' lake cottage, quite often so I feel quite at home there. Sunday their cousin and her boy friend were there, too, and I know them well. It was hot so I took off my blouse to get a suntan and went around in my bra and shorts.

I don't think a bra is any different than a halter but the way my boy friend and the rest of them looked at me, I felt uncomfortable and put my blouse back on. My boy friend did not speak to me the rest of the day and hasn't called me since. That was three days ago and the bra incident is the only reason I can think of for him being mad at me. I'm not going to call him first so how can I get him back? Please answer soon.

What you did was in poor taste because it was in a mixed group and you were a guest in someone's home. Your boy friend probably was angry and embarrassed, too, to have the others know that you had such poor judgment.

A bra is different than a halter since it is made to be worn under clothing while halters are made to be worn outside. A nightgown (that is not sheer) covers as well as a sunback dress and opaque panties cover as much as short shorts, but I hope you would not consider walking down the streets in either one!

What happened amounts to a lack of social know-how. Since you did embarrass your boy friend, I think you owe him an apology even if you have to call him first.

"Haven't taken laxatives since"

There's a safe, sure way to correct constipation due to lack of bulk. Read what Mr. E. Newman, Canton, Ohio, writes about it:

"I am 69 years old and have had to take laxatives all my life. But a few months ago I started to eat Kellogg's All-Brans and haven't taken a laxative since."

Let Kellogg's All-Brans help you, too. This whole bran cereal gives you all the natural bulk you need for youthful regularity. Just a half-cup a day, with milk, does it.

Enjoy Kellogg's All-Brans for 10 days. You'll be happy with the results.

She Watched Emory Grow From Little To Big Business

By HARRIETTE WEINSTEIN

An Atlantan's first job has lasted through 39 years and eight bosses.

And Miss Pauline Odum, secretary to the dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Emory University, has watched Emory grow from "little business to big business."

"When I first came here in 1919 to be secretary to my brother," recalled Miss Odum, "there were only a few buildings on campus. They hadn't moved the college at Oxford up here yet. There were very few women around—just a few secretaries and one girl in law school."

Since 1919, she has worked for eight bosses—"all of them have been wonderful to me." And she has seen a world of students come and go.

REMEMBERS ALL

But the surprising thing is that the names and faces of past and present students fit together for Miss Odum.

"John, yes I remember him. I'll have to fuss at him for not coming around more often. Oh, yes, Ted was a student here. His wife worked in our office for a while. Bill was here. How is he now?"

And her students remember her.

"We always went to see Miss Odum. She'd go along with you on working out your schedule as long as she was sure you could handle the load."

One student recalls that Miss Odum and not Emory University presented him his diploma.

BLANK PAPER

"I received a blank piece of paper on graduation. So I went around to see Miss Odum."

"Hello, Bill. You got the blank piece of paper because you've been supposed to graduate for so many quarters and at the last minute something happened. This time we didn't want to take any chances printing your diploma. So I'll just drop it in the mail."

Many changes take place in nearly 40 years.

"We used to have to do many more things than we do now that there is a dean of students and so on. And perhaps the coeds make competition a little keener. We did have coeds before, but they all lived at home."

But the problems are the same.

"Mostly cutting classes too much and things like that. But as long as you're working with people, there is variety in the job—even after 39 years."

As Emory grew, so grew her work.

"I learned to handle the job as it came along. I've always been able to do fairly well at it," smiled Miss Odum. "At least I always thought I could."

And Emory students and alumni agree.

Once in the Service, the Men Treat Women Like Queens!

MAXWELL FIELD—You can have space travel if you want it. I may still be back there with those people who were going to break their necks but this planet is surprising enough for me.

There I was an earthbound mortal concerned with nothing more lofty than a leak in the roof—and here I am sleeping where Alexander P. De Seversky slept night before last.

In a moment I'm going out to inspect the nation's great air war college, the air command and staff college, the school of aviation medicine for the U.S. Air Force and the Air Force Institute of Technology. They're going to take me up in a jet and, I have no doubt that we will all speak knowingly of future air bases on the moon.

And to think all this just an hour and a half away from my concern over weeds coming up in the cracks in the sidewalk.

The way it happened is this. The Women's Air Force invited the nearest members of DACOWITS (defense advisory committee on women in the services) to come to Maxwell Air Force Base for a two-day visit. Miss Evelyn Walker, a television executive in Birmingham, and Dr. E. Neige Tod Hunter of the University of Alabama and I came. Somewhere along the line we'll pick up a new language made up strictly of initials. (So far all I know is that USAF means United States Air Force and I have to keep asking what ECI means. It's extension course institute—the mail order school where books and courses are sent out to thousands of American airmen all over the world who are improving their education by correspondence.)

The only thing that cheers me is that DACOWITS is a pretty baffling set of initials itself.

"Well, you know women's committees," I said lightly. "It's supposed to advise about women in the service and, I think, help create a better public acceptance of the idea of women in the service. But that hardly seems necessary nowadays. Everybody is sufficiently enlightened these days to know that women are needed and that the service offers wonderful careers for them."

"Oh, I don't think so," she said earnestly. "I come from a service family. My father is in the Air Force. So there was no question about my coming in. But I have friends who were astonished and a little shocked that I always planned this after college. They left college to take selling jobs in department stores. They have no idea about the professional advantages in the service. And there's a certain amount of prejudice still lingering in the minds of some men."

"You know girls want to please men!" she said. "And a lot of men think the service is no place for women. But once you're in they treat you like queens. You couldn't be safer and you couldn't have a better time."

We'll see, I thought. But I have a notion she's right. Of the 248 people who will graduate from the squadron officers school this morning, three are women. Where else is there such an attractive ratio?

One thing I can't understand. Could you tell me what makes these Gabor girls so popular?

EDDIE B.

DEAR EDDIE:

I sure could!

DEAR GEORGE:

Aren't you ever stumped for an answer?

DOT.

DEAR DOT:

No indeed. Unlike many authorities, who are forever using up all their answers on a, say, Monday and not having any left over for Tuesday's answering, I keep several answers in reserve at all time. Here is one: "Stauracin is an oriental silk textile figured with small crosses." Another: "You worry too much, Morton R. Windsterheim." A trifle specialized, yes—I will admit, but they give me a feeling of security. Like if anybody asks who invented dye. The ancient Phoenicians. That's who.

DEAR GEORGE:

How in the world can children be kept from seeing so many "horror" shows on TV? The situation is getting worse instead of better.

REALLY WORRIED.

DEAR REALLY WORRIED:

It is repeatedly advised that your child's TV viewing should be rigidly monitored. Exactly how to do this is never quite explained—it's easy in your own home, of course, but any child worthy of the name knows at least 18 neighbor kids whose sets are on. Short of unplugging your own set and shackling your tot with leg irons, about the best solution is to raise Cain; quit buying the advertised product on such shows and hope the sponsor goes broke. And while you're hoping, toss in a hope for the early demise of firms who sponsor 20-year-old animated cartoons incessantly.

DEAR GEORGE:

What are the advantages of color TV?

LEGAL NOTICES

EXECUTIVE ORDER BY THE GOVERNOR
Whereas, Pursuant to the Provisions of Sections 24-203, 24-204 and 24-205 of the Georgia Code of 1933, which requires the Governor, with the assistance of the Comptroller General, to levy a percentage on the taxable property of the State sufficient to meet the requirements thereof, not exceeding a percentage thereon named;
Now, therefore, after approximating the amount of all taxable property of this State, as shown by the tax digest and other tax returns for the year 1959, it is ordered: That the following rates of taxation be assessed and collected from the amounts of taxable property returned by or assessed against each taxpayer, and upon the value of all property in this State, subject to taxation, for the year 1959, and for the following purposes:

1. Five Mills on the full market value of the shares of the stockholders of banks, banking associations or corporations and moneyed capital in the hands of individuals coming into competition with national banks, banking associations or corporations.
2. One-quarter of one mill on the full market value of all other taxable property, making the whole State tax hereby levied and assessed in the first instance $3.00 for each $1,000 worth of property, to meet the appropriations made by the General Assembly for the fiscal year 1959.
Given under my hand and seal of the Executive Department, this 16th day of June, 1959.
(Signed) S. ERNEST VANDIVER, Governor.

BY THE GOVERNOR: (S) PETER ZACK GEER, Secretary, Executive Department.
(S) ZACK B. CRAVEY, Comptroller General.
(S) DIXON OXFORD, Revenue Commissioner.

GEORGIA FULTON COUNTY: The undersigned, as Secretary of the Board of Commissioners of the State of Georgia, hereby certifies that the above and foregoing is a true and correct transcript of an Order, written or document, signed by the Governor of said State and of record in this Department.
This 16th day of June, 1959.
(S) PETER ZACK GEER, Secretary.

'DEAD TO RIGHTS': FRICK

Levan Says He Will Appeal Banishment

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—Jess Levan, banished from baseball for life for allegedly consorting with gamblers, said Thursday night he would appeal the decision.

"I feel my punishment is too severe," said the former first baseman of the Southern Assn. Chattanooga Lookouts.

But Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick had another belief. "It looks as if they had them (Levan and Gonzales) dead to rights," he said.

Both Joe Engel, president of the Lookouts, and team manager John Red Marion praised Trautman's action.

"Baseball has no place for anyone who consorts with gamblers," said Engel.

Marion said, "It makes me feel funny inside that such a thing could happen. But Mr. Trautman says he's guilty and he's got the proof. He (Levan) shouldn't be wearing a uniform."

However, Engel and Chattanooga Police Chief Ed Brown denied a published accusation that Engel Stadium, the baseball park, is "nothing but a gambling casino."

The club president said the park "is always well policed." Brown admitted there has been "some" gambling but added, "I certainly don't think that the park is a 'gambling casino.' That statement is much too broad."

The police department is doing everything in its power to stop it, the chief said.

The Dallas Times Herald attributed the "casino" charge to a former Southern Assn. player who was not identified.

CRAX DENY GAMBLING

SHREVEPORT, La.—In a called meeting before Thursday night's game with Shreveport here, the Atlanta Crackers discussed the publicized Southern Assn. scandal regarding alleged connivance of players and gamblers.

Every Cracker emphatically said that he had never been approached by a gambler and did not know of anyone who had until reading about the Chattanooga scandal.

Club vice president Jasper Donaldson read to the team a story which appeared in The Atlanta Journal on Tuesday, quoting "an informant" as saying that players had agreed to foul off pitches for benefit of those who wagered on such things.

Manager Bob Montag and the club voted to ask the writer of the article, Bob Christian, to appear before the team, and in the words of Montag, "to name names or the source of his information."

Added Montag: "We just wanted to know of anything if it happened. If not, we don't want innocent boys to suffer."

Christian said the matter was in the hands of other authorities and he would have no comment at this time.

—THOMY

Levan, who lives here with his wife and two children, was not sure just what procedure to follow in appealing.

"I'll have to contact my lawyer," he said, adding, "I've never accepted a bribe or a fix—there has never been a bribe or a fix."

The 33-year-old veteran of 13 years in the minors was Chattanooga's leading hitter at the time he was placed under suspension pending Trautman's investigation. Only July 3, he was hitting .337.

In the off-season, Levan works as a salesman or a pipefitter or plays winter ball. Last winter he played in Nicaragua.

Since joining the Lookouts in 1956, he has hit 83 home runs—a club mark for an individual player. Previously he won league batting titles with Hagerstown, Md., and Miami Beach, Fla. His career also included brief tryouts in the majors, with Washington and Philadelphia.

The Lookouts recently acquired Ed Stevens, formerly with Atlanta and Dallas, to fill Levan's old position at first base. Earlier, the manager plugged the hole with an outfielder.

Chattanooga still is a player below the limit as the result of Gonzalez' suspension. Gonzalez, reported to have returned to his home in Havana, Cuba, was hitting only .179 but was considered a brilliant fielder.

Frick, commenting from New York, said he was appraised of the investigation all along. "I knew all about it," he said. "I sat in on the investigation, I think the action of Mr. Trautman (boss of the minors) is a proper one."

Levan Exiled In 'Fix' Case

Trautman Suspends Gonzalez for One Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A first baseman for the Chattanooga baseball club was banished from the game for life and a teammate was handed a year's suspension Thursday in a crackdown on gamblers' attempts to fix games in the Southern Assn.

The lifetime ban went to Jesse Levan, charged with acting as a liaison agent for betting interests and offering fellow club members money to throw games.

Waldo Gonzalez, a shortstop, was suspended for a year, effective July 3, 1959, for attempting to obstruct the investigation of George M. Trautman, boss of the minor leagues.

See Trautman's complete text on Page 36.

Trautman announced the punitive measures, warning that failure to report gambling activity promptly in the future "will be dealt with very severely."

Three other Chattanooga players — pitchers James Heise and Thomas McAvoy and third baseman Samuel Meeks — also were named as having been approached by Levan, but no disciplinary action was taken against them.

Trautman said Heise and Meeks had been let off because of their cooperation in the probe, and McAvoy wasn't punished because he thought the whole thing was a joke.

Under the rules, Levan and Gonzalez may appeal to the executive committee of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues (minors) and, beyond that, to Commissioner Ford Frick.

Although other sports have been rocked by gambling scandals, baseball has been relatively free of such involvement since the notorious "Black Sox scandal" of 1919. Then several members of the Chicago White Sox were accused of throwing the World Series to Cincinnati. Several players were banished for life.

Trautman's investigation began July 3 after Levan and Gonzalez had been suspended by Charlie

The Southern Scandal

Now is the time for all honest baseball players to come to the aid of their sport. Under any circumstances it's difficult to conceive that players could have reacted as they did in the Chattanooga episode. With the minor leagues teetering on the brink of extinction, it's unbelievable.

But there's the testimony in the official text (printed elsewhere in this section) released by Minor League chief George Trautman Thursday. In view of evidence which had leaked out, announcement that Jesse Levan has been banned from baseball for life, wasn't surprising. Neither was Waldo Gonzalez's suspension through July 2 of 1960.

Levan and Gonzalez, according to the baseball jury, attempted to throw games. There's simply no way to understand how an athlete can disgrace himself and his profession by consorting with gamblers.

There's also no explanation to justify the secrecy of ex-Cracker Sammy Meeks, Andy Frazier of Mobile and pitchers Thomas McAvoy and Jim Heise of Chattanooga.

"It is shocking" to this office that several players did not report promptly the fact that this gambler was actively engaged in a program to fix games," Trautman said after announcing his ruling. That's putting it mildly, and Trautman seems to have dealt mildly with the players.

—Mum Was the Word in Mobile

You can't expect the public to read the official text of this hearing without losing considerable faith in the game. In brief, Levan allegedly approached Heise twice—before and during the season—and tried to induce the pitcher to serve up soft pitches. Levan reportedly offered Heise money to co-operate.

To Heise's credit, he promptly rejected the offer. But he did not inform authorities. If Heise had reported the bribe offer to Chattanooga owner Joe Engel last spring, the Southern Association would not have been blighted with the greatest scandal in its history. But Heise said nothing.

During the ill-fated series in Mobile last June, Levan allegedly made a fix pitch to teammate McAvoy. McAvoy testified that he thought Levan was joking. McAvoy said nothing.

Ex-Cracker Meeks testified that he met Levan and a gambler in a cocktail lounge in Mobile during the June series. Meeks listened to the plot, refused to accept money, but agreed to watch shortstop Gonzalez for signals tipping pitches.

According to testimony, the plan was employed in a game during that Mobile series. The text did not reveal whether Chattanooga won or lost the game. Meeks, coaching first base for Mobile, said he got the signs from Gonzalez and flashed the coming pitch to certain teammates. One of the teammates was Frazier, who testified that Meeks flashed the wrong signal twice. Frazier then said he asked Meeks to cease signaling.

—Holton Struck a Blow for the Game

Meeks maintained that the information gave Mobile an advantage in the game, stressing that winning baseball games for Mobile was his business. Conducting an honest sport is far more important than winning. But neither Meeks nor Frazier informed officials of the illegal shenanigans.

Meeks was later released by Mobile and hooked on with Chattanooga. Since winning games for the Lookouts was then Meeks' business, he revealed the details to roommate Ray Holton.

And Holton emerges from the sordid mess as the hero. Holton immediately informed Lookout manager Red Marion. Marion, of course, told president Engel who, in turn, made a swift report to Southern president Charlie Hurth.

A quick investigation was launched and the July 3 hearing in Nashville uncovered the information divulged by Trautman. Authorities haven't been able to locate the unnamed gambler who reportedly lived in Chattanooga.

Numerous players were quizzed in the league after the Nashville airing. The gambler reportedly had purposely listed several names of innocent victims as a cover-up maneuver. Presumably no more evidence was obtainable after the July 3 interviews, at least none was included in the official text.

On the eve of Trautman's announcement of Levan's ban and Gonzalez's suspension, the Dallas Times-Herald quoted former Southern Association players as saying the Chattanooga park was nothing more than a gambling casino. They were quoted as saying that "one player was offered $700 to foul off three straight pitches." Sensational headlines aren't going to clean up this vile mess. Now is the time for players to do their talking, under oath. It's also past time for civil authorities to step in.

Even Umpire's Helping A's

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Even the umpire is helping the Kansas City Athletics these days.

Washington, trailing 2-0 Thursday night, had two men on base when Hal Naragon singled over second. The ball hit ump Joe Paparelli and stopped. Jerry Lumpe retrieved it and threw out the man who would have scored from second base.

Senators Lose 12th in Row

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Stout pitching by Bud Daley and Tom Sturdivant hoisted the Kansas City Athletics into third place Thursday night as they defeated Washington 4-1 and put together the longest winning streak in the streak in the American League since 1954.

The victory was the 11th straight for the A's, put them into third place, a half game ahead of the fourth place Baltimore Orioles and 8½ games behind league-leading Chicago. The defeat was the 12th straight for Washington and they sagged into last place again a half game behind Boston's Red Sox. Their string is the longest losing streak in the majors.

The pitching victory went to Daley and gave him a tie for the most games won by a Kansas City pitcher—12. Art Ditmar in 1955 and 1956 and Ned Graver last year managed to win a dozen since the club was moved here from Philadelphia.

Rus Kemmerer and Hal Woodeshick finished up after Griggs went out in the fifth.

Daley was in trouble several times but shut out the Senators for six innings.

The Athletics got two unearned runs in the second.

Two more runs came across in the fifth; Tuttle doubled and scored on Russ Snyder's two-bagger. When Bertola threw wildly to the plate, Snyder went to third and scored as Roger Maris grounded out.

Maris, who has been battling Gene Woodling of Baltimore and

Atlanta Stymies Sports Wins, 3 2

By AL THOMY

Constitution Sports Writer

SHREVEPORT, La. — Atlanta lost the battle of Shreveport but won the final skirmish, 3-2, here Thursday night behind the cannonballing of right-hander Chuck Kolakowski.

Loser in the season's final game between the two teams was junkballing Bob Spicer, limber right-hander who launched the dismal Cracker year by beating Atlanta in Ponce de Leon April 10.

In between Spicer's two appearances, Shreveport won 14 of 20 games played.

Kolakowski, now 7-8, had only

Hernandez Baffles Pels for Lookouts

Memphis Edges Barons, 2-0, Then Birmingham Raps, 5-2

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—The Chattanooga Lookouts Thursday beat New Orleans' Pelicans 5-1 on Rudy Hernandez' 6-hitter.

Memphis and Birmingham split a doubleheader, keeping the Barons one-half game behind Mobile, which was rained out. Memphis won the opener, 2-0, on lefty Bill Pleis' three-hitter and a two-run homer by Shep Frazier. Homers by George Alusik and Jimmy Hughes sent the Barons to a 5-2 decision in the nightcap.

The Lookouts gave Hernandez a three-run lead in the first inning and, in the fourth, Dan Dobek slammed a two-run homer over the right field lights. It was his 17th round-tripper of the season.

The only New Orleans score came as a result of two hits in the third.

Chattanooga nicked Dick Drilling for 10 hits but the Pelican hurler was in trouble only in the two innings the Lookouts scored. He was helped by three double plays.

New Orleans won the six-game series, 4-2.

IT'S A BIRD . . . IT'S A PLANE . . . NO, IT'S SHAPELY JOEL LENZI IN FLIGHT TO TANK . . .

Coral Gables Cutie Takes Two Titles in Thursday's Dixieland Diving Competition At Heart of Atlanta Pool . . .

Hayes and Lenzi Sweep Diving Titles at Dixieland

By EARL SIMPKINS

Jack Hayes and Joel Lenzi, both from Coral Gables, left a well pleased crowd applauding as they walked away with two titles each in the diving events of the Dixieland Swimming and Diving championships at the Heart of Atlanta Motel Thursday.

Jack captured the senior men's three-meter and platform crowns and Joel, swimming unattached, took wins in the senior women's three-meter and platform events.

In the younger age groups, Butch Baker of Ansley Golf Club won first in the junior boys' and Emory's Barbara Weeks won the junior girls' class.

In exhibition swims over the 20-yard course, Dayton Dolphins' Junele Cunningham and Avondale's Lee Bradford tied national marks for the 40-yard freestyle for 10-and-under at 23.6 and 22.6.

The Dayton 160-yard freestyle relay team set a new mark of 1:45.3 and the Avondale boys' group posted a new record of 1:45.3 for the same distance.

Bill Davis of Emory finished second to Hayes in both diving events. Frances Beck, unattached, was second to Joel in the three-meter and Dayton's Linda Phillips was runner in the platform diving.

Gayle Brackett of Ansley finished close behind Barbara in the junior girls one-meter diving and Hugh Loomis gave Ansley a one-two finish in the junior boys' starting at 9 a.m., with 14-and-under and senior trials moved back to 2 p.m.

Swimming events will move to the Avondale Community Pool Friday, with 210 heats scheduled to be run starting at 9 a.m. Finals will begin at 7 p.m. The same schedule will be in effect Saturday at Avondale.

A change was made in the schedule of events for both days. All 8-and-under, 10-and-under and 12-and-under trials will be held starting at 9 a.m., with 14-and-under and senior trials moved back to 2 p.m.

Wilson-Ivey 'Duel' Spices South Work

Lanfair, Brooks Added; Scrimmaging Set Today

By PAUL ATKINSON

When thunderous Bill Wilson, 6-1, 210-pound tackle from Columbus High School, and equally thunderous Albany tackle Bill Ivey, 6-2, 217, collide, there's a loud explosion of humanity.

And that's just what these two huskies were doing Thursday as practice for the North-South All-Star football game at Grant Field commenced in serious fashion.

Actually, the meeting of Wilson and Ivey—if it was nothing more than in Oklahoma-style one-on-one blocking—is a preview of upcoming Georgia-Georgia Tech matches. Wilson is a Tech signee, while Ivey heads for Georgia after the All-Star game.

There were other one-on-one pairings which brought smiles to the faces of South coach Joe Sumrall of Thomaston and his aides. R. E. Lee Institute's John Lanfair, a last-minute replacement for Forest Park's Dwight Campbell, and Cairo's Jack McKelvie (6-0, 190) mixed it well. So did Forest Park's Larry Foster (6-3, 202) and Fitzgerald's Arnold White (6-1, 230).

Sumrall doesn't expect to start full-scrimmaging until Friday, as does his North counterpart, Calvin Ramsey of Avondale.

There was considerable signal drilling. Sumrall had aligned in one backfield, Richmond Academy's Gilroy Garner quarterback, Waycross' Jimmy Barber and LaGrange's Jimmy Burton at the halfbacks and Lee's Ronald Peaden at fullback. This, apparently, will be the No. 1 unit.

Singled out particularly for outstanding work so far have been North Fulton guard Bill Van Dyke, tackles Bryson Mitchell of Bass and Ed Hertwig of Newton County.

And Ramsey was marvelling at the kicking of Stephens County fullback George Cheek, who did everything and did it well for Red Amick's Class A champions in 1958. Consistently, Cheek was booming 'em 50-60 yards.

Orioles' Richards Strikes Out Against Evils of Bonus System

Cleveland Buys Jack Harshman

From Press Dispatches

Baltimore Manager Paul Richards said Thursday the competition among major league baseball teams for young players has become vicious.

Richards denounced in particular the payment of big bonuses to persuade prized talent to sign contracts.

Appearing before the Senate antimonopoly subcommittee, the Baltimore pilot suggested an unrestricted player draft and said he understood that all but two of the 16 major league club owners favor liberalizing the draft rule.

MORE BASEBALL—Cleveland bought pitcher Jack Harshman from Boston on waivers for an undisclosed price.

FOOTBALL—Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Football League, told a representative of the proposed Trans-America League "it will take them three or four years to build qualified teams." . . . Lamar (Poor Boy) Hunt, multimillionaire backer of the new loop, is confident it will operate in 1960. . . . Government investigators postponed questioning former Notre Dame Coach Frank Leahy about some oil stocks he sold. . . . George Shaw, new New York quarterback, alternated with Charlie Conerly, Frank Gifford and Don Heinrich. . . . Baltimore President Carroll Rosenbloom spiked a revenue plan for Colts' scholarship and blasted Dr. Frank C. Marion, who opposed it. . . . Mac Lewis, 31-pound Iowa tackle, was among college All-Stars earning praise. . . . Former 260-pound Los Angeles offensive tackle Ken Panfil is drawing praise with the Chicago Cardinals. . . . Center Jim Ringo and linebacker Bill Forester were appointed 1959 Green Bay captains. . . . The usual fat man's table was established for 11 overweight Chicago Bears. Former Tennessee tackle Doug Atkins and end Harlon Hill were ordered to reduce.

New head coach Jim Hickey said all of the late Jim Tatum's staff will be retained at the University of North Carolina. . . . The San Francisco 49ers lost rookie lineman Wally Bavaro of Holy Cross to an ankle injury.

TENNIS—Australian captain Harry Hopman named Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson to face Cuba in American Zone Davis Cup finals. . . . A weary but confident Italian Davis Cup team make up the fancy college football television fare for this fall. The National Broadcasting Co. announced a 10-date schedule Thursday which Tom Gallery, NBC sports director, calls "the strongest in the eight years I've been here."

The program kicks off Sept. 19 with the national champion, Louisiana State, playing Rice at Baton Rouge, La. Army, Oklahoma, the Air Force Academy and Syracuse are other top teams of 1958 who will perform for the armchair quarterbacks.

The colorful Army-Navy game again highlights the program. It is scheduled Nov. 22, the week before the final TV attraction involving UCLA and Syracuse at Los Angeles.

THE TV SCHEDULE

Sept. 19—Louisiana State vs. Rice at Baton Rouge, La.; Sept. 26—Northwestern vs. Oklahoma at Evanston, Ill.; Oct. 3—Texas vs. California at Austin, Texas; Oct. 17—Michigan State vs. Notre Dame at East Lansing, Mich.; Oct. 24—Big Ten game to be selected.

Nov. 7—Split network—Boston College vs. Pittsburgh at Boston, Mass. (east); Missouri vs. Air Force Academy at Columbia, Mo. (west). Nov. 21—Big Ten game to be selected; Thursday, Nov. 26, Thanksgiving—Duke vs. North Carolina at Durham, N.C.; Nov. 28—Army Navy at Philadelphia, Pa.; Dec. 3—UCLA vs. Syracuse at Los Angeles.

Clark Tells Where His Dancers Went

By PAUL JONES

Dick Clark finally got around to answering publicly some of his fan mail from teen-age Georgians the other day.

It seems that fans of the Bandstand show have been writing to Clark for some time now attempting to determine what has happened to some of the young dancers who used to appear regularly on the show and who no longer are in the daily line-up.

I have received a number of letters from high-schoolers who said they had written to Clark and to the producers of Bandstand but never got an answer.

Clark finally was pressured into answering—on the air.

During the Wednesday afternoon show, he devoted almost 15 minutes to reading the names of the young dancers who used to appear on the program. And he told where each is now living, what he is doing.

I didn't attempt to take down the names of the teen personalities who have become so popular with the young viewers throughout the country and especially in this area. He even mentioned a number of youngsters I had never heard of. I guess he didn't want to run the risk of leaving out anyone.

But I do recall that he said Pat Moliterni has moved to California and is now doing a series of stories for a magazine which is slanted toward a teen readership. I always had this little girl pegged for good things and I believe this magazine writing stint is just the beginning of a bright professional career.

If you missed the show and still are interested in knowing the whereabouts of some of the teens who used to dance in front of the cameras, Clark might send you a rundown on them now that he has acknowledged the many letters you have written to him on the air.

CHANNEL 2 is going to scoop the television world by staging a world TV premiere, whatever that is.

"The Philadelphia Story," starring Katharine Hepburn, Cary Grant and James Stewart will be exhibited on WSB-TV Saturday night starting at 11 p.m.

"No other station will have shown this film before WSB," says Miss Jean Hendrix, assistant general manager in charge of film for WSB-TV. "Baltimore has it scheduled for Aug. 5, which we understand will be the second showing by a TV station."

This is as it should be. Atlanta has become recognized as a film premiere capital of the world on the basis of the "Gone With the Wind," "Song of the South," "Wilson" and other fabulous screen openings.

It is right that Atlanta should have the world TV premiere of a film, too.

"Philadelphia Story," incidentally, is a romantic comedy which involves some Philadelphia society folks. It is one of the all-time top sophisticated comedies.

Letters

AN ALMA READER writes: "I read your column about the things you'd like to see on TV. I agree completely about What's My Line, Annette and her own show, the Lawrence Welk commercials, Marilyn (Monroe) on Playhouse 90 and Perry Mason.

"These broke me up: The Sullivan-Garner-Allen triangle; Ezzreem Zimballist (A fiddle!); Liz and Eddie doing 'Wuthering Heights' and Peter Gunn two-timing his girl. Don't you say anything unkind about Matt Dillon. He's my pet.

"On these points I disagree: Leave Dick Clark alone. I didn't like your ripping apart The Record Years a while back. Please, no more quiz shows and don't you touch a hair on Kookie's head. (You must have guessed by now that I'm a teen-ager.) I don't want Phil Silvers back and I don't want any flower shows!

"I'm anxious for Molly Bee's new show and I hope they keep Peck's Bad Girl. And they won't let Loretta Young go, will they?"

Peck's Bad Girl is headed for the showers. Loretta, however, is among the top five personalities on the air and I'm sure she'll be around.

Congress To Probe TV Quizzes

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate committees moved Thursday to look into allegations that some television quiz programs were not on the up and up.

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) of the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee announced plans to determine whether the shows were fraudulent and if they were, to take steps to prevent any rigging in the future.

Harris said his subcommittee will travel to New York Monday and seek permission to examine findings of a grand jury probe.

At the same time, Chairman Warren Magnuson (D-Wash) of the Senate Commerce Committee took steps to obtain a copy of the grand jury's report, which has been withheld from public view by court order.

"It appears to me that this entire problem is so closely connected with the public interest that it may be necessary to take corrective action," Magnuson wrote Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan of New York County.

Heart Disease Kills Songwriter Herman Ruby

His best known songs included "I'll Always Be In Love With You," "My Sunny Tennessee" and "Cecilia."

He was born in New York City and began his musical career in "Tin Pan Alley."

Ruby came to Hollywood at the advent of sound movies and wrote for many films.

Young Bill Joyce Gets Big Break

By THE TV SCOUT
BEST BET — Although the program itself is just another Western, there is some interest in tonight's Stripe Playhouse. This is the last pilot they'll show this season, and it's a curious one. It's Jack Webb's answer to the Western craze. Webb bought the rights to the novel, which was once (1954) a feature film starring Sterling Hayden. It's about a singing cowboy, and it's a big break for young William Joyce. He won the role over several other applicants, including Jimmy Dean. Joyce will sing the theme song — "Goin' Home Now" — which was written in '55 but never used until here. This pilot, with Fay Spain co-starring, has Joyce, as Johnny Guitar, hired to play at the girl's wedding. But she has other plans than just music. The insiders feel this series will never materialize, but nevertheless it's a good showcase for Joyce. And it has one element most Westerns ignore — some comic touches, like a singing cowboy with a toned-down horse. (9:30-10 Ch. 5).

8-9 (Ch. 11) — Walt Disney Presents tonight repeats "The Goofy Sports Story," a happy assortment of animated cartoons featuring Goofy. This lighthearted doggy show is perfect fare for these doggy days.

8-9 (Ch. 2) — Tonight's Ellery Queen repeat is the one which had Wayne Morris as an ex-prize fighter with a heart as big as Primo Camera. Morris plays one of those great-with-kids types, and one of the kids he's great with says he killed a man. It's a fair-to-maudlin effort, with Morris surprising with a fine bit of acting.

9-9:30 (Ch. 5) — They were beginning to think that Phil Silvers was one of those actors who lives his part after he filmed the show that will be repeated tonight. This one, "Bilko's Allergy," is a funny show in which sharpie Bilko seems to have developed an allergy to playing cards, which would be a fate worse than losing with four kings, during which Silvers has more sneezes than lines, he developed an honest sneezing stage. Turned out, happily, that all he was allergic to was cold germs.

10-10:30 (Ch. 2) — This is Lee Marvin night. From 10:30-11, he's at home on his own M Squad crime series, and, during this period, he's starring in the repeat on Western Theater. This is perhaps the best repeat this show has snagged for its summer schedule. Originally shown on Schlitz Playhouse in August, 1957, it has Marvin as a gambler who loses his horse in a card game, but wins a young boy ward. This brings trouble, of course, but it's rather an unusual premise for a Western and Marvin plays it to the hilt.

'Showcase' To Feature Bourke-White Story

(Copyright 1959 by the New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK—Margaret Bourke-White, the Life magazine photographer who contracted Parkinson's disease in 1952, will be the subject of a television drama to be presented next season by the National Broadcasting Co.

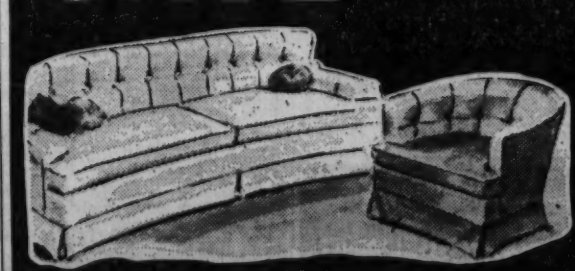

The network announced today that the one-hour drama would be based upon an article about Miss Bourke-White that appeared in Life last month. It told of the effects of the illness and of how she had undergone an operation last year that helped her on the road to recovery.

Although no date has been set for the program, Miss Bourke-White's story will be televised on "Sunday Showcase," a new series to be seen on Sundays from 8 to 9 p.m.

Three persons with views in opposition to those expressed in a CBS editorial by Frank Stanton, president of CBS, will appear on television Sunday from 7:30 to 8 p.m. They are:

Eric H. Rasmussen, editor of the Weekly People, an organ of the Socialist Labor Party; Ben Davidson, executive director of the Liberal Party; and Daniel M. Berman, assistant professor in the Department of History and Political Science, Washington College, Chestertown, Md.

The Hostess Becomes a Heroine When She Serves Peach Souffle

Peach souffle salad combines the flavor of lemon gelatin and mayonnaise and fresh peaches to bring to the dinner table something special. It is a salad for company dinner that will surprise guests and make a heroine out of the hostess.

Pudding with rice cereal and peaches is a treat for the children of the family as well as the parents. It's peach-eating time, and so take advantage of it.

FRESH PEACH SOUFFLE SALAD

1 cup hot water
1 cup cold water
1 tbs. vinegar or lemon juice
1 cup mayonnaise
1 1/2 cups diced fresh peaches
Dissolve gelatin and salt in hot water. Add cold water, vinegar and mayonnaise. Blend well with egg beater. Pour into refrigerator freezing tray.
Quick-chill in freezing unit (without changing control) 15 to 20 minutes, or until firm about 1 inch from edge but soft in center. Pour mixture into bowl and whip with egg beater until fluffy.

Fold in fruit. Pour into 1-quart mold. Chill in refrigerator (not freezing unit) until firm, 30 to 60 minutes. Unmold. Garnish with additional sliced peaches and a sprig of mint, if desired. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

PEACH FLUFF PUDDING

1 1/2 cups water
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 cup quick-cooking rice cereal (cream of rice)
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. almond extract
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
1 1/2 cups diced fresh or frozen peaches

Bring water and salt to boil. Sprinkle in rice cereal gradually so that boiling does not stop. Cook, stirring constantly for 60 seconds. Turn off heat, cover and let stand for 3 minutes. Stir in sugar and cool to lukewarm. Add almond extract and fold in whipped cream. Fold in diced fresh or frozen peaches. Pile lightly in dessert dishes and chill. Serve garnished with sliced fresh or frozen peaches and slivered toasted almonds or cashew nuts. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

MAPLE PEACHES
5 whole fresh peaches, peeled
1 tbs. butter
1/2 cup maple-blended syrup
2 tps. lemon juice
1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon
1/4 tsp. ground mace
1/4 tsp. salt

Place peaches in greased baking dish. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over peaches. Cover and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 15 minutes. Uncover and bake 15 minutes longer, basting occasionally. Serve warm. Garnish with mint leaves, if desired. Makes 5 servings.

BUTTERSCOTCH PEACH CAKE

1 cup water
2 eggs, unbeaten
1 cup heavy cream
6 to 8 tbsps. maple-blended syrup
3 cups sliced fresh peaches
Prepare cake mix with water and eggs as directed on package, baking in two 9-inch layers. Cool layers.

Whip cream until thick and shiny, but not stiff. Fold in maple-blended syrup gently. Spread half of the whipped cream on one layer; cover with half of the peaches. Place second layer on top. Then swirl remaining whipped cream on top of cake and arrange rest of peaches in a design on the cream. Garnish with a sprig of mint, if desired.

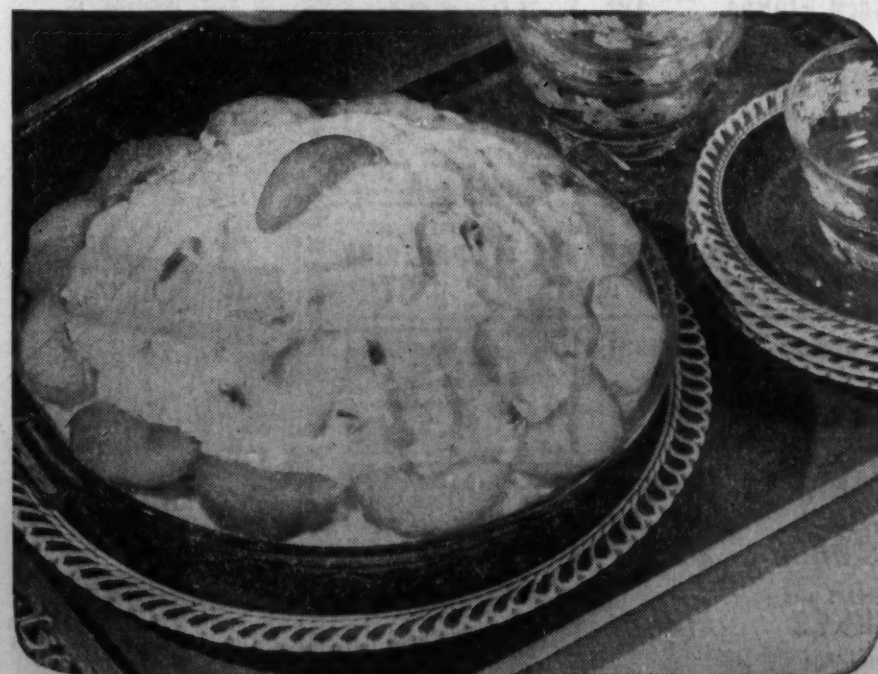

FRESH PEACH COBBLER
2 tbsps. quick-cooking tapioca
1 cup sugar
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. ground nutmeg
4 cups sliced fresh peaches
1 cup water
2 tbsps. lemon juice
1/4 tsp. grated lemon rind
2 tbsps. butter
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
2 tsp. double-acting baking powder
2 tbsps. sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup milk

Combine tapioca, 1 cup sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, the nutmeg, peaches, water, lemon juice, and lemon rind, in an 11x7x2-inch baking dish. Dot with butter.

Combine sifted flour, baking powder, 2 tablespoons sugar, and 1/2 teaspoon salt; sift together. Cut in shortening. Add milk gradually, stirring until soft dough is formed. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead 30 seconds, or enough to shape. Roll dough to fit top of dish, and cut several slits near the center. Or cut dough into squares. Adjust dough on peach mixture, opening slits with a knife to permit escape of steam. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees) 30 minutes. Sprinkle confectioners' sugar over top and serve with cream, if desired. Makes 8 servings.

A Summer Fruit Makes Headlines

By VIRGINIA DYSARD KEZIAH
Constitution Food Editor

Peaches should be around from now until September, and that means the homemaker should have time to try every recipe she can find using them as an ingredient or a garnish.

The chilled spicy fruit for salad-sandwich-platters make perfect hot weather eating. When they are served as pictured here, placed on a tray of ice, and garnished with mint, they enhance the buffet table.

Finger sandwiches, raw carrot sticks and tiny tomatoes serve as go-alongs with the luncheon. Cold meat slices rolled into cylinders with a ripe olive tucked into one end are doubly appealing when served with glacier peaches.

Instead of the usual pitcher of iced tea, serve in a punch bowl. Ladle into lemon-minted garnished glasses.

GLACIER PEACHES

1 (No. 2 1/2) can cling peach halves
1/4 cup brown sugar (packed)
2 or 3 tbsps. wine vinegar
1 tsp. instant minced onion
1/4 tsp. seasoned or hickory smoke salt
Glacier Topping

1 (8-ounce) package cream cheese
2 tbsps. spiced syrup from peaches
2 tbsps. mayonnaise or sour cream
2 or 3 drops Tabasco sauce
1/4 tsp. seasoned salt
2 tbsps. sweet pickle relish, drained (or, 1 tbsps. each chopped green pepper and pimento)

Drain peaches, saving syrup. Combine 1 cup peach syrup with sugar, vinegar, onion and salt. Bring to boil; pour over drained peaches and chill thoroughly 4 or 5 hours or overnight. When ready to serve, drain peaches and fill each one with a snowy cap of Glacier Topping. Serve with sandwich-salad plates or with barbecued or other meats or turkey.

Glacier Topping: Soften cheese; beat in syrup and mayonnaise until smooth. Add all remaining ingredients; chill until ready to use. Makes 5 or 6 servings.

FRESH PEACH PRALINE PIE

1 1/2 tbsps. quick-cooking tapioca
1/2 to 3/4 cup sugar
4 cups sliced fresh peaches
1 tsp. lemon juice
Pastry for one crust 9-inch pie
Praline Crumb Topping

Combine tapioca, sugar, peaches, and lemon juice. Roll pastry 1/4-inch thick. Line a 9-inch pie pan. Trim pastry 1 inch larger than pan, fold edge to form a standing rim. Flute or shape as desired. Sprinkle one-third of the Praline Crumb Topping over bottom of pie shell. Fill with peach mixture and sprinkle with the remaining topping. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees) 45 minutes, or until syrup boils with heavy bubbles that do not burst. Serve warm.

Praline Crumb Topping: Combine 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar, 1/4 cup flour, and 3 tablespoons butter. Mix with pastry blender, fork, or fingers until crumbs are the size of large peas. Then stir in 1/2 cup chopped pecans.

FLAMBE MAPLE PEACH DESSERT

1 1/4 cups (12-ounce bottle) maple-blended syrup
1 can (1 pound 14 ounces) sliced cling peaches and syrup (or 8 fresh stewed peaches, sliced)
1 tbsps. butter
1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon
1/2 tsp. ground nutmeg
1 pint vanilla ice cream
6 sugar cubes
1 tbsps. orange, lemon, peppermint, or black walnut extract

Combine maple-blended syrup, peaches and syrup, butter, cinnamon, and nutmeg in a large saucepan or skillet. Simmer 8 minutes. Remove peaches and arrange in 6 serving dishes. Continue simmering peach sauce 5 to 8 minutes, or until sauce is slightly thickened and glossy. Place ice cream in serving dishes; then add peach sauce. Just before serving, dip sugar cubes in extract and place one on top of each dessert. Light cubes and serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

PEACH JULEP

3/4 cup sliced fresh peaches
2 tbsps. sugar
1 cup water
1 cup cracked ice
2 tbsps. lemon juice

Blend in electric blender for 20 seconds. Pour into tall glasses and garnish with mint leaves. Serves 2.

New for Baby... Cottage Cheese with Pineapple

Now... for the first time, you can give baby high quality protein in the most delectable form: mild cottage cheese, flavor-sparked with mellow pineapple.

Asparagus Cuts Will Provide

This way of cooking asparagus may convert you to a new method!

PANNED ASPARAGUS CUTS
1 bunch (3 lbs.) asparagus
3 tbsps. butter or margarine
1/2 cup boiling water
1/2 tsp. salt

With a swivel-blade vegetable peeler, pare scales and outer covering from asparagus stalks, up to buds. Wash in hot, then rinse in cold water. Slice into 2-inch diagonal lengths, about 1/4 inch thick; slice through buds this same way. Over low heat melt 2 tablespoons of the butter in a deep 10-inch skillet with a dome cover; add asparagus; stir to coat with butter. Add boiling water and salt. Cover and boil fairly rapidly just until tender, about 5 minutes; lift cover several times, mix and watch like a hawk. Uncover; if there is more than a few tablespoons of liquid in skillet, remove excess. Stir in remaining tablespoon butter. Makes 6 servings.

Note: The asparagus used in testing this recipe were on the thick side—21 stalks in a 2-pound bunch.

A BEAUTIFUL CAKE DEMANDS SPECIAL ATTENTION
A Fine Textured Anniversary Cake Has Chocolate Flavor

Anniversary Celebration

Any anniversary is reason enough for a celebration. But when a happy marriage reaches an important milestone it is a matter of pride and inspiration to the entire family and to a wide circle of friends. So, it should be celebrated with a party.

You may choose to have a small dinner for a few close friends or a reception to which a great many more can be asked. A reception type entertainment in the afternoon or evening requires only a tray of tiny sandwiches.

It is a delicious homemade cake baked in two 9-inch square pans. These layers are split to make four—and spread with luscious creamy chocolate filling. Fluffy seven minute frosting covers the top and sides. Toasted almonds are used for the garnish. Obviously so lovely a cake would be equally suitable for a party celebrating any anniversary.

ANNIVERSARY CAKE
2 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
2 1/2 tps. double-acting baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 1/2 cups sugar
3 eggs, unbeaten
1/2 cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla
Chocolate cream filling
Seven-minute frosting
Toasted slivered almonds

Measure sifted flour, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each. Then add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla and blend.

Pour batter into two 9x9x2-inch square pans, which have been lined on bottoms with paper. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) about 25 minutes. Cool layers. Then split each layer.

Prepare Chocolate Cream Filling. Spread between layers, stacking to make a four-layer cake. Spread Seven Minute Frosting over tops and sides of cake. Decorate with toasted slivered almonds.

CHOCOLATE CREAM FILLING
3 squares unsweetened chocolate
2 cups milk
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup cake flour
1/2 tsp. salt
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 tsp. vanilla

Place chocolate and milk in top of double boiler. Heat over hot water until chocolate is melted; then beat with egg beater until blended. Combine sugar, flour, and salt, add gradually to chocolate mixture, and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Continue cooking 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour small amount of mixture over egg yolks, stirring vigorously. Return to double boiler and cook 2 minutes longer, stirring constantly. Add butter and vanilla; cool before spreading.

SEVEN MINUTE FROSTING
2 egg whites, unbeaten
1 1/2 cups sugar
Dash of salt
1/4 cup water
2 tps. light corn syrup
1 tsp. vanilla

Combine egg whites, sugar, salt, water, and corn syrup in top of double boiler. Beat about 1 minute, or until thoroughly mixed. Then place over boiling water and beat constantly with sturdy egg beater (or at high speed of electric beater) 7 minutes, or until frosting will stand in stiff peaks. (Stir frosting up from bottom and sides of pan occasionally with rubber scraper, spatula, or spoon.)

Remove from boiling water. (For a very smooth and satiny frosting, pour at once into a large bowl for final beating.) Then add vanilla and beat 1 minute, or until thick enough to spread.

Beans Francaes

GREEN BEANS FRANCAES
1 lb. snap beans
1/2 cup boiling water
1/2 tsp. salt
2 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 medium-sized onion (quartered and cut into thin strips)
1 can (8 oz.) sliced mushrooms
Pepper

Cut tips from beans; scrub in cold water; drain. Cut in half crosswise and lengthwise. Cook rapidly in 2-quart saucepan with boiling water and salt, covered, until just tender—about 12 minutes. Lift cover and turn over beans a few times while cooking; drain. Meanwhile brown onion in butter in 8-inch skillet; add drained mushrooms and heat; mix with drained beans. Add freshly ground pepper to taste. Reheat if necessary. Makes 6 servings.

The Favorite of Millions Since 1919

Ever wondered why you gain weight when some of your friends never seem to gain a pound? There's more to it than just what you eat. Many factors are involved such as glands, heredity, surgery, neurosis and many more. These facts are discussed in "The Will to Lose," an important new series by Edith Hills Coogler, Journal women's editor. Miss Coogler also tells about the pitfalls of dieting, exercise, fake foods, fasting, psychiatry and even hypnosis. "The Will to Lose" will continue daily, except Saturday, in The Journal. Don't miss it.

Wow! Fresh Corn 'n Real Butter!

Now! Glorify your cook-outs this buttery-sweet, tender way!

For 4 ears of corn, mix $\frac{1}{2}$ cup (1 stick) softened Butter and 1 teaspoon salt. Remove husks and silk from corn. Rest each ear on 9" x 12" piece of Reynolds Wrap and coat corn with Butter.

To wrap, bring sides of foil together and fold over three times. Do NOT wrap closely. Fold ends. Cook 15 to 25 minutes on grill. Or 20 minutes in 450° preheated oven.

Here's a great new cook-out idea! Treat 'em to fresh corn roasted in Real Butter and Reynolds Wrap. You get extra tenderness and sweetness with a fine creamy flavor roasted through and through every last kernel. And you couldn't ask for easier fixing! Just butter ears of corn, wrap in foil to seal the flavor in and lay 'em on the grill, in the coals or in the oven. Butter-roasted corn goes fast, so be sure to fix plenty. Put Butter, fresh corn and Reynolds Wrap on your list for the weekend.

Better pick up some Real Butter and a load of sweet corn

Cool Pizza Bake
Is Teen Answer

Hot 'n hearty PIZZA BAKE will be a "cool" favorite with teens who gather for a backyard barbecue. Make this easy sandwich pizza from loaves of French bread, cut in half, lengthwise. Spread the bottom half with a pizza mixture of ground beef (sauteed in hot fat until lightly browned), tomato paste, chopped ripe olives, oregano, salt, pepper, and monosodium glutamate.

Arrange thin slices of Mozzarella cheese on top of meat mixture, sprinkle with chopped green pepper, and cover with top half of loaf. Wrap filled loaves securely in heavy foil. Then heat over medium hot coals, turning occasionally, for about 15 minutes, or until heated through.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♦ Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♠.

One of the most discouraging occurrences that can befall a defender is to be caught in an end play from which there is no escape. One solution is to act as though you are not end played at all and perhaps declarer won't realize it, either. Witness one East's actions in today's deal from a recent tournament.

North's leap to six no trump was completely justified inasmuch as he held a point count of 20, presumably opposite a partner who had announced at least 13. Incidentally we do not look with great favor on South's opening bid.

The queen of spades was opened and won by dummy's ace. There are three chances for slam: The club break, the fall of the jack of clubs and the heart finesse. The two top diamonds were cashed and dummy re-entered with a club to run the diamonds. East had to make two discards. The first one was easy, a little spade. For the second discard, one East player selected a second spade.

Declarer thereupon tested the clubs, and when the suit failed to break he cashed the king of spades taking away East's last spade and gave him the lead with the jack of clubs, compelling a heart return into the ace-queen in dummy.

At another table East could see what was coming and made preparation well ahead. The club jack had to be guarded and it was plain to him that if he let go a second spade, declarer who was marked with the king of spades as part of his opening bid, could strip East of that suit and throw him in with a club when he found out how that suit broke. His two discards were, therefore, the three of spades and the six of hearts in quick succession. When it came to the last three cards, declarer, who had no way of knowing what had taken place, elected to take the heart finesse and went set.

DOES GETTING UP NIGHTS
MAKE YOU FEEL OLD
Thanks to new laboratory formulation, thousands are now discovering how much stronger and better they can feel by combining ordinary kidney or bladder irritations. These irritations often occur after 35, and may make you tense and nervous from too frequent urinating or feeling irritation both day and night. Secondly, you may lose sleep and suffer from headaches, backache and feel old, tired, depressed. In such irritation, OXYSTEX usually brings fast, relaxing comfort by curbing irritating serum in strong, acid urine and by giving analgesic pain relief. Safe for young or old. Get OXYSTEX at drugstore. Feel better fast.

HEALTH and HAPPINESS

By DR. SARA JORDAN

Make Sure You Eat Enough

Anorexia nervosa, is used to designate a long-term habit of no appetite and low intake of food, which is part of a general nervous condition. The result is, of course, malnutrition, sometimes very serious. Occasionally, but rarely, it has a fatal outcome.

There are some mild forms of this disease in which poor habits of eating can be corrected by superficial or amateur psychotherapy plus exhortation and watchful regulation of meals. Certain cases, however, are much more serious, causing changes in the chemistry and sometimes in certain of the glands of internal secretion.

The disturbance is much more common in females than in males and usually occurs between the ages of 15 and 30. Starvation damages the little but very important gland in the brain, called the pituitary gland. Then the ovaries and the thyroid are also affected by lack of nutrition. Girls with this condition often fail to menstruate for a long time and occasionally, but rarely, lose ovarian function completely.

The function of the thyroid gland—so important for bodily strength and energy—is also diminished, as shown by a lower rate of basal metabolism and by symptoms of fatigue and weakness. Blood pressure is also usually lower than normal.

This is what is called a self-inflicted disease. Treatment is often very difficult because the patient, until persuaded by psychotherapy or events in his life to help in correcting the condition, wills himself to be inviolated by the condition. Often it represents a devout form of rebellion to a parent's imposition of discipline or of his will over that of the child.

The symptoms and deficiencies of this disease are caused entirely by lack of good nutrition. In obstinate cases all sorts of subterfuge are used by the patient to evade control by those in charge of treatment. A case of mine failed to gain weight under adequate meals. It was discovered she had been putting her nourishing liquids into various plants which were in her room.

If the emotional trouble behind the appetite disturbance can be cleared there is no difficulty in helping these patients, but at times this is a difficult problem. It is wise for parents or family to detect a tendency of this kind early and take measures to remedy it.

In these days when young girls are so eager to be thin and cut down on their food intake their stomachs actually shrink; and this important organ can be stretched to normal capacity only by habitually putting enough food into it. The habit of eating too little to nourish the vital parts of the body has serious potentialities.

(Dr. Jordan cannot undertake to answer personal questions by mail. However, questions of general interest relating to health will be discussed from time to time in this column.)

A Pretty Salad For Warm Days

For a pretty salad during warm days try this combination. Drain a No. 2 can of pineapple chunks and place in a bowl. Pour ½ cup of French dressing over fruit and allow to stand in the marinade in the refrigerator for 2 hours or longer. At serving time, arrange pineapple on crisp salad greens. Sprinkle each serving with chopped stuffed olives and chopped pecans or sliced almonds. Serve with mayonnaise. Serves 4.

NOT SO DEEP

By FRANK WELLS

Fish Aren't Biting? Who Cares! It's Lay-By Time

The calloused, plow-fitted hands hold the cane pole easily. The straw hat—in the cool shade of the dense willow—is a matter of habit rather than need. The overalls are clean of the dust of the cultivated fields.

The fish are not biting, but who cares? It's lay-by time.

The afternoon wears on. A cloud shadow of a piling cumulus shades the sun. A speculative eye in a weatherbeaten face peers out from under the willow and scans the chance of rain.

"Could use a rain—even if it is lay-by time!"

Up at the house, this Friday, the women find lay-by time not so easy. They are busy in the kitchen baking cakes. More hard work tomorrow, but it is a labor of love for the family reunion—always held in lay-by time. Dinner on trestle tables under the trees: Fried chicken, a hundred different kinds of sandwiches, mountains of potato salad, gallons of iced tea and the cakes, of course. There may be even a shooat or a goat a-barbecuing on a pit. It's lay-by time.

The family reunion does its best to use up all the frying size chickens and the four-layer chocolate cakes, but there always seems to be enough left over for the start of the revival—always held in lay-by time. "Two preachings Sunday and dinner-on-the-ground!" It's lay-by time.

Exhorting preachers and flopping fans (courtesy of the Funeral Home), windows open to what breeze there is and air conditioning by Georgia pines, it's meeting week in lay-by time.

Lay-by time is another of our Georgia folkways which is fast becoming a thing of the past. Lay-by time is the time between the last cultivating work of the crop and the labor of harvest and is a time when the farmer has had to reach a truce with the grass in the cotton, because the cotton is too tall to plow.

Lay-by time doesn't come to the dairy or livestock farmer or the rural folks in the industry of raising broilers or to the increasing number of part-time farmers who spend 40 hours a week in a factory and still make a little crop.

But the idea of lay-by time is still felt by all who have ever lived in the country: courting time, visiting time, fishing time, meeting time, reunion time, yes, resting time.

It's lay-by time in Georgia!

Museum on Wheels Still Rolling

Bob Neitzel, resident archeologist at the Etowah Indian Mounds, tells this story about railroading:

Seems as though a group of students with chaperones went down to the railroad station in Marietta intent upon riding the train up to Cartersville to see the Etowah Mounds and museum.

The startled ticket agent said, "Where in the world are all you folks going?"

The answer came back, "We are going to Cartersville to see the museum."

Said the agent, "The museum! Why you folks will be riding on a museum!"

RHYME A DAY

By OLLIE REEVES

"Mrs. 'Blank' is in the throes of last minute preparations for a European trip."—Society column quote.

When a lady prepares for a sailing or flight . . . On a journey abroad, she's a pitiful sight . . . First, the things she must take and things she will wear . . . Will cost twice as much as her passenger-fare . . . Second, there is the luggage to carry the stuff . . . And where is the woman who has half enough . . . For all of the parties and social affairs? . . . So she carries along a lot more than she wears.

She needs something formal of silks or saten . . . Just in case she's invited to visit the Queen . . . And some thick, woolen garments, for she has been told . . . The summers in England and Scotland are cold . . . That the weather in London is foggy and wet . . . So she's driven half-crazy and deeper in debt.

Then, while she is visting, poor Mr. "Blank" . . . Is paying off notes at the national bank . . . Mrs. "Blank" and her husband are both "in the throes" . . . There will always be trouble wherever she goes.

(*Why don't you gals in the Woman's Department tell them it's always that-a-way)

Mental Exams Asked For Taxi Drivers

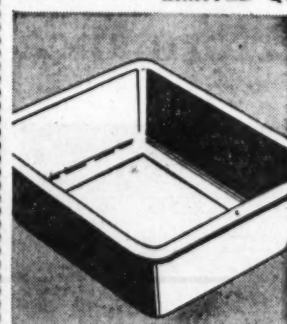

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Alfonzo Quiroz Cuaron, a criminologist, proposes psychiatric examinations for all Mexican taxi and bus drivers. He told a meeting of district attorneys' agents many drivers undergo a dangerous change of personality when they get behind the wheel.

A Barbecue Chef in Your Family?

Do you have a heap big barbecue chef in your family? Then he'll have heap big fun dishing up these Barbecued Frankfurters some warm, wonderful evening. And everyone can settle down to a heap big time relishing same.

It's the sauce that gives these frankfurters zing. You'll find it a canny blend of chopped onion, chili sauce and other pungent savories, with canned apple sauce for rich body and zesty apple flavor.

The sauce and the franks mingle and simmer cosily in a pan atop the grill, releasing little spicy whiffs to sharpen appetite. Now they're ready! Place the franks in split, toasted rolls, ladle generously with the sauce. Serve with po-pickles. For the drink serve chilled Apple-Orange Cooler. And to keep in mind, for an indoors meal, frankfurters simmered and served in this sauce make a tasty supper dish any time. And an easy one!

OUTDOOR BARBECUED FRANKFURTERS

- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 2 tbsps. butter or margarine
- 3 tbsps. cider vinegar
- 2 tbsps. brown sugar
- 1 cup chili sauce
- 2 cups canned apple sauce
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 lb. frankfurters

Saute onion in butter or margarine until light brown; add vinegar, brown sugar, chili sauce, apple sauce and salt. Add frankfurters; simmer 20 minutes. Serve in split, toasted frankfurter rolls, with spoonfuls of sauce over all. Makes eight servings.

APPLE-ORANGE COOLER

- 1 qt. chilled apple juice
- 1 cup orange juice
- 2 tbsps. lemon juice
- 1/4 cup sugar (about)
- Lemon slices

Combine all ingredients and blend thoroughly. Garnish with lemon slices. Serve well chilled. Makes four to six servings.

We Go Pogo
August 3rd

Pogo started as a spear carrier in a comic book feature in 1943. One trouble then was that he looked just like a possum. Now hundreds of newspapers know Pogo and so do millions of readers. That's why the editor hired this clear-eyed youth so that you can know him better too and also his friends.

For the benefit of any uninformed persons (few) we review the cast of characters!

Simple Recipes Can Be the Best in Town

Some of the simplest recipes are best. We have in mind this delicious Avocado Cream Cheese Dip, a smooth, perfectly seasoned mixture of fine-flavored avocado and cream cheese. The recipe makes a party-size batch. Make the dip the center of attraction on an hors d'oeuvre tray with ripe olives, crisp cheese crackers, potato chips, carrot sticks and small crisp leaves of romaine.

2 large or 3 medium-size very ripe avocados
2 tbsps. fresh lime or lemon juice
8 ozs. cream cheese (room temperature)
1 1/2 tbsps. salt
Few drops Tabasco sauce
Grated onion

Cut avocado in halves and remove seed and skin. Sieve fruit or cut in chunks and whip until smooth in electric blender or with wire whisk. Blend in lime juice, cheese and seasonings. Serve as dip for potato chips. Makes about 1 1/2 pints.

Melons Decked Out for Summer

Ripe juicy melons are all ready to be decked out in summer finery, for "the girls" when they come over to play bridge, for vacation-time visitors, for just the family. But how to go kitchen-fancy without too much extra work?

A stuffed melon, we find, is always a delight, and easy to do. Cut a thin slice from one end of the melon so it will stand straight. Cut a thin slice from the top; with an iced-tea teaspoon scoop out the seeds. Pare the rind from the melon, removing all the inedible part, and invert to drain away any more juice.

Now wrap the melon tightly in transparent plastic wrapping and refrigerate. This wrapping is important because melon imparts its fragrance to other foods, and delightful as the fruit itself is, it doesn't add a thing when it mingles with butter and eggs!

Next make up some fruit gelatin and cool it, then pour it into the melon's cavity. Rewrap the filled melon and refrigerate it for at least four hours or overnight. When you are ready to serve, slice the filled melon and use it as a salad (with greens) or "as is" as a dessert. Either way, cottage cheese, sour cream (or sour cream substitute) make fine go-alongs.

You can have fun with colors! Gelatin flavored with fresh lime and tinted pale green is pretty as can be in cantaloupe; gelatin made with an orange-juice base is so attractive in honeydew. We like to use standard recipes made with unflavored gelatin, but you may prefer to use the quick packaged fruit-flavored gelatin, desserts.

Sometimes add a small quantity of fruit to the gelatin, small pieces of diced orange or the tiny canned mandarin oranges, pitted halved cherries, sliced strawberries or peaches. The cavity of a melon won't hold all the gelatin in a standard recipe, so just turn what is left over into small molds for an extra refreshing dessert.

Pared seeded cantaloupes may also be used attractively without stuffing them with a gelatin mixture. One way we like is to slice the melon and drop a cluster of seedless green grapes into each ring.

For a sweet dessert, place a scoop of ice cream or sherbet in each cantaloupe ring and garnish with cherries or sprigs of mint.

Or freeze sweetened whipped cream and strawberries in small molds; then unmold and place the pretty shapes in the rings of cantaloupe slices.

If you use honeydew, you'll find fresh blueberries or blackberries are good piled into the rings of the sliced melon. Or use dark sweet cherries, with the stems left on.

An Unconventional Meal

Sundays are a time for relaxing, for enjoying family and friends over lazy and unconventional meals.

Sundays are a time homemakers and career women are off the hectic three-meal-a-day schedule, and cooking becomes a pleasure, not a necessity.

Sunday meals, whether simple or fancy, can be the most exciting, yet the simplest taste treats of the entire week. Most U.S. families have accepted brunch, a combination of breakfast and lunch served sometime midday, either indoors or out, as a replacement for the formal Sunday dinner. A long, relaxing brunch is usually followed by a light supper in the evening.

Brunches require a dish that's easy to prepare, substantial, but quite out of the ordinary. For example, Quiche Lorraine... cheese pie and a French favorite of long standing, has become one of our brunch-time favorites when made with tangy blue cheese.

Also tops on the brunch taste list is blue cheese relish rabbit, which is guaranteed to tempt the fussiest palates.

In true brunch style, both dishes should be preceded by juice or fruit, complemented with toast or hot breads, plenty of hot coffee, and topped off with dessert and wine for the gourmet.

Try one of the following recipes soon. They'll give you added time with the Sunday paper or your guests, and less time in the kitchen.

QUICHE LORRAINE

1/2 pound sliced bacon, cooked drained and crumbled
1/2 cup crumbled American blue cheese (about 4 ounces)
1 cup grated Cheddar cheese (about 4 ounces)
1 8-inch unbaked pastry shell
3 eggs, slightly beaten
2 cups milk
1 tbsps. all-purpose flour
1/2 tsp. garlic powder

Arrange bacon and cheeses in bottom of pastry shell. Combine remaining ingredients and blend. Pour into pastry shell. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) 40 minutes, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Garnish with additional American blue cheese and chopped parsley, as desired. Makes 1 9-inch pie.

BLUE CHEESE RELISH RABBIT

1 tbsps. butter
1 1/2 cups crumbled American blue cheese (about 8 ounces)
2 cups grated Cheddar cheese (about 1/2 pound cheese)
1/2 cup light cream
1/2 cup sweet pickle relish
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1/2 tsp. dry mustard
1/2 tsp. paprika
3 eggs, beaten

Melt butter and add cheeses. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until cheeses melt. Gradually stir in cream, relish, Worcestershire sauce, mustard and paprika. Cook, stirring constantly, until heated. Add a small amount of cheese mixture to eggs; mix well and return to hot mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Makes 6 servings.

Lamb Shish Kebab

Ask your meat man for 1½" to 2" cubes from leg or shoulder of lamb. Skewer and grill over coals until partially done. Remove meat from skewer with tongs and re-thread on same skewer, alternating meat cubes with mushrooms, green pepper slices, and pineapple chunks. Season well and finish cooking. Cubes may be marinated in barbecue sauce before cooking, or brushed with sauce during cooking.

America's
No. 1
Barbecue Delight...

LAMB

Add delicious variety to outdoor meals... Barbecue LAMB for a change!

Centuries before Americans invented the word barbecue, the Persians had another name for it.

Around their campfires, Persian soldiers discovered that lamb cubes skewered on their swords and broiled over coals were remarkably tender and had a delicious flavor.

Today, this same delicacy is often served on "flaming swords" in famous restaurants. It's equally good on an ordinary skewer in your own backyard.

But remember! For true shish kebab, the meat must be lamb. That's important because only lamb combines such tenderness with such delicate, distinctive flavor.

It is for this same reason, too, that lamb makes the perfect meat for any form of outdoor cookery. You can broil it, roast it, grill it, or stew it for variety. Yet, any way you fix it, you always can be sure of delicate tenderness and delicious flavor.

Lamb Sirloin Steak

For finest flavor, have steaks cut 1" to 1½" thick. Broil about three inches from source of heat. Turn once and season with salt and pepper. Also add a dash of powdered marjoram or rosemary if you wish. Serve sizzling hot.

Barbecued Lamb Riblets

Brown 4 lbs. lamb riblets on all sides. Pour off drippings. Salt and pepper; add 1 medium chopped onion; brown lightly. Mix ½ tsp. red pepper, tsp. salt, cup catsup, 3 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce; 2 tbsp. brown sugar; ¼ cup lemon juice, cup water. Pour over riblets, cover and cook over low heat till tender.

Grilled Lamburger

From an outdoor grill or indoor broiler, here's a treat 'n change for burger lovers. Mix 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 1 teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper with each pound of ground lamb. Shape into patties and broil. Serve steaming hot.
